ADV. WRITING.

MUCH advertising suffers from the inability of the amateur writer to get started without 15 minutes of "cranking up" and his inability to stop until the terminal is half a mile behind. Shall I hit the nail squarely on the head for you, Mr. Merchant or Manufacturer, with advertisements, booklets, circulars, etc., that carry the punch and possess terseness, timeliness, impressiveness and persuasiveness? GERMANY AT WAR WITH RUSSIA AND FRANCE

Invasions and Counter Invasions Are Being Made in Every Direction, and the First Big Battle is Expected in Prussia.

Germany formally declared war on Russia Saturday evening and the armies of both nations were at once ordered to embark on campaigns of invasion.

No declaration of war by France or against France has yet been made, but German troops have invaded French territory and French troops have invaded Prussia.

Italy still remains neutral. Germans have occupied points in Switzerland, Belgium and Luxembourg.

GERMANS INVADE SWITZERLAND

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Paris, August 3.—A heavy force of German soldiers entered Switzerland Sunday and seized the Swiss military station at Baste. This is just across the Rhine from the German military post on the Rhine, where it enters Swiss territory.

GERMAN FLEET BOTTLED UP

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, Aug. 3.—The German fleet in Kiel harbor is reported to have been bottled up today. Wireless dispatches that heavy lifting was heard in the North Sea last night, indicating that a naval engagement was going on.

The German embassy today denied that two British merchant vessels had been seized. It is said that they had changed their destination because of the military operations.

GERMAN CRUISER BOMBARDS LIBAU

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Amsterdam, Aug. 3.—The German cruiser Augsburg is bombarding Libau the important Russian port on the Baltic, according to reports received here. Libau is burning. A Russian cruiser has attacked the Augsburg.

Libau has a population of more than 75,000. Its artificial harbor was constructed by Russia at a cost of $10,000,000. It is in Courland, southwest of the gulf of Riga. The harbor was extensively mined last week in expectation of an attack.

GERMANS CAPTURE FINNISH STEAMER

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Copenhagen, Aug. 3.—German warships have captured the Finnish steamer Primula, bound from Helsingfors to Lubeck. The passengers were allowed to come here on the Malmoe.

HEAVY FIGHTING WITH SERVANS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Vienna, Aug. 3.—The newspapers report serious fighting on the river Drina. Austrian frontier guards are opposing bands of Servian volunteers who are attempting to invade the dual monarchy.

The foregoing dispatch, a direct cable from Vienna via London makes no mention of any attempt on the life of Emperor Francis Joseph. It is believed the report published in London is a false rumor.

Dog Catchers Are Out.

Chief Dog this morning started a crusade to round up all unlicensed dogs in the city and the police expect to see to it that the ordinance in regard to harboring or owning an unlicensed dog is enforced. It is expected that arrests will follow as a result of the campaign against dog owners who have not secured licenses for their pets.

CLEARING HOUSE CERTIFICATES

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, August 3.—The clearing house committee, at a conference today decided to issue clearing house certificates.

This is the first time these certificates have been issued since the 1907 panic.

In explanation for its act, the committee declared that it merely was a protective one. It was pointed out that there was enough currency in the United States now to take care of every conceivable need, but rather than take any chance of a shortage in currency it was decided to issue the certificates. The issuance of the certificates is expected to add the final guard around the protection placed over America's gold supply.

The certificates will be put into circulation as soon as they are printed. The committee also adopted a resolution making available in payment of balances all forms of currency issued under the authority of the National government.

Following the committee's action in voting to issue certificates, the New York State Bankers, at a meeting of their own, decided to exercise the sixty days' clause in regard to withdrawals. This means that until further notice, New York state bank depositors must give the banks sixty days' notice of their intention to withdraw funds.

The clearing house committee issued the following statement concerning its decision to issue certificates:

"At the meeting of the New York Clearing House Association this morning the situation abroad was discussed and its bearing on the business of this country was considered. It is the opinion, universally expressed, that in view of the conditions existing in every country in Europe, every means should be taken to protect the gold supply in the United States."

"It was therefore voted that for the present the Clearing House Association be placed on a certificate basis."

FRENCH ARMY READY FOR WAR

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Paris, Aug. 3.—Mobilization is practically complete. The troops are concentrated at their rallying points and as rapidly as possible will be conveyed to the northern and eastern frontiers.

The order issued by the government ordered mobilization to be effected by 11:59 Sunday night. At 2 o'clock this morning the war offices received official acknowledgement of the command from the last town to report.

Heart rending scenes were enacted here today when thousands of German residents were compelled to part with their friends and in answer to the call of the German emperor, start back for Germany to take up arms against Germany's foes.

Thousands of Germans who have lived in France for many years never have taken out French citizenship papers. The majority of these have married French girls and have families. When they left today for Germany they were compelled to leave them behind, and everywhere some touching scenes were enacted when leave taking time came.

Many of the Germans who quitted Paris today, left behind them business enterprises that they had spent years in building up, wives and children that they loved, and French friends who have become very dear to them in the past years.

They were bitterly resentful of the situation that had been forced upon them by the acts of the German emperor.

"We don't want war," they cried. "War is needless. And such a war as we seem to face now will be horrible. But long ago we pledged our word that if Germany ever engaged in war we would go back and fight for it. And now, no matter what the sacrifice, we are returning."

BATTLE IMMINENT IN NORTH PRUSSIA

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, August 3.—France struck back at Germany today by invading the Kaiser's empire with two corps, numbering 55,000 men. With heavy artillery, a dispatch from Paris says, they crossed the frontier near Lascheuch in the Vosges mountains. The German army is advancing to meet them.

Berlin, August 3.—The first great battle between Russian and German troops probably will be fought in Northeastern Prussia. Russian artillery and a large force of infantry has already entered Germany near Schwinden.

Skirmishes between border patrols are reported from several points, but no official reports of casualties have been given out. The censorship prevents the sending of any details of the movements of German troops.

GERMANS DEFEAT RUSSIAN FLEET

Battle Took Place Off Coast of Finland on Sunday—Russian Ships Take Refuge in Gulf of Finland Where They Are at Anchor.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Stockholm, Aug. 3.—The Russian fleet was defeated yesterday in a battle with a squadron of German warships off the Aland islands. The Russian boats put into the Gulf of Finland where they lay at anchor today.

Germany has seized the Aland islands which form part of Finland. Fishermen report that a Russian battleship has gone ashore on one of the islands.

WIRELESS MUST BE DISMANTLED

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Plymouth, Eng., August 3.—A British torpedo destroyer today steamed close to the Cunard-Canadian liner Andania off Plymouth and notified her to dismantle her wireless. All wireless stations not used by the government are being dismantled by orders of the admiralty.

BRITISH GOVERNMENT PREPARING FOR WAR

Foreign Minister States That France Must be Protected and Neutrality of Belgium Maintained—British Army to be Mobilized.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, Aug. 3.—England's efforts to preserve peace among the great powers of Europe have failed and Great Britain has pledged herself to support France if a German fleet comes into the English channel or attacks the coast of France.

This momentous announcement was made in the house of commons this afternoon by Sir Edward Grey, the foreign secretary. Sir Edward said he understood that the German parliament would be prepared "if we can pledge neutrality," to agree that its fleet would not attack the northern coast of France.

He declared that this was a far too narrow promise.

"The consideration which is becoming more serious every hour," he said, "is Belgium's neutrality."

He said that the cabinet felt strongly that France was entitled to know immediately whether in the event of an attack on her unprotected northern and western coasts she could depend upon British support. In asking the house to deal with this question the foreign secretary urged that the crisis be approached from the point of "British interests, honor and obligations." He said the house was free to decide what the British attitude would be as the government had not given no promise of any other than diplomatic support.

Explaining the effort to secure peace, Sir Edward said: "It was not possible to secure the peace of Europe because there had been little time, and furthermore there was a disposition in some quarters to force matters rapidly to an issue."

"We have worked consistently with a single mind and with all earnestness to preserve peace," Grey continued.

"Up to yesterday Great Britain had given no promise to any country of anything more than diplomatic support. France is involved in the present war under a definite alliance with Russia but that obligation cannot apply in the same manner to England which is not a party to the Franco-Russian alliance."

The foreign secretary said that England did not construe anything in its previous diplomatic relations with other powers in this matter as restricting its freedom to decide what its attitude should be now.

"If a foreign fleet," he said, "comes down the channel and bombards the French coast, England could not stand aside."

"Is England to leave the northern and western coast of France absolutely unprotected and at the mercy of a German fleet?"

"A telegram was received from the King of Belgium," continued the secretary, "asking a supreme guarantee to Great Britain to safeguard Belgium's integrity. Germany said they could not give a reply respecting Belgium's neutrality as it would disclose part of their plans of campaign."

Sir Edward added if Belgium was compelled to submit to her neutrality being violated the situation was clear.

"The British fleet is mobilized," said the secretary. "The army's mobilization is taking place, but England has not yet taken any engagement to send an expeditionary army abroad."

Grey stated that the government could not issue a proclamation of unconditional neutrality. He emphasized the fact that Ireland was

FRANCE TO DECLARE WAR TOMORROW

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Paris, August 3.—Parliament will meet tomorrow and declare war on Germany. President Raymond Poincaré has summoned the senators and deputies in extraordinary session.

FRENCH AVIATORS OVER GERMANY

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Berlin, August 3.—A French aerial squadron crossed the frontier today and is scouting over Germany. The war office was notified today that a hostile dirigible was sighted during the night between Kempenich and Andernach. The enemy's aeroplanes were seen today between Duren and Cologne. A French monoplane is reported to have been wrecked by German sharpshooters at Wesel.

GERMAN LINER GOES DIRECT TO BREMEN

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Aug. 3.—The North German Lloyd Steamship Company this morning received a cablegram from Bremen to the effect that a wireless message had been sent to Captain Pollock of the Kronprinzessin Cecilie, directing that vessel, which has on board $10,600,000 gold, to proceed direct to Bremen without stopping at Plymouth or Cherbourg.

The officials have heard nothing of the vessel's reported capture by English warships. Aug. 3.—Naval authorities here have no information as to the reported capture of the Kronprinzessin Cecilie and her treasure cargo. Great excitement was caused that the liner would not stop here.

Last reports of the ship said that she was sighted from Malinhead, on the north coast of Scotland. It is believed her captain is trying to reach Germany via North Scotland.

ALL LIGHTS OUT ON NORTH SEA COAST

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

GERMANY AT WAR WITH RUSSIA AND FRANCE

Invasions and Counter Invasions Are Being Made in Every Direction, and the First Big Battle is Expected in Prussia.

Germany formally declared war on Russia Saturday evening and the armies of both nations were at once ordered to embark on campaigns of invasion.

No declaration of war by France or against France has yet been made, but German troops have invaded French territory and French troops have invaded Prussia.

Italy still remains neutral.

Germans have occupied points in Switzerland, Belgium and Luxembourg.

GERMANS INVAD SWITZERLAND

Paris, August 3.—A heavy force of German soldiers entered Switzerland Sunday and seized the Swiss military station at Baste. This is just across the Rhine from the German military post on the Rhine, where it enters Swiss territory.

London, Aug. 3.—The German fleet in Kiel harbor is reported to have been bottled up today. Wireless dispatches that heavy fighting was heard in the North Sea last night, indicating that a naval engagement was going on.

GERMAN CRUISER BOMBARDS LIBAU

Amsterdam, Aug. 3.—The German cruiser Augsburg is bombarding Libau the important Russian port on the Baltic, according to reports received here. Libau is burning. A Russian cruiser has attacked the Augsburg.

Libau has a population of more than 75,000. Its artificial harbor was constructed by Russia at a cost of $10,000,000. It is in Courland, southwest of the gulf of Riga. The harbor was extensively mined last week in expectation of an attack.

GERMANS CAPTURE FINNISH STEAMER

HEAVY FIGHTING WITH SERVANS

Vienna, Aug. 3.—The newspapers report serious fighting on the river Drina. Austrian frontier guards are opposing bands of Servian volunteers who are attempting to invade the dual monarchy.

The foregoing dispatch, a direct cable from Vienna via London makes no mention of any attempt on the life of Emperor Francis Joseph. It is believed the report published in London is a false rumor.

Dog Catchers Are Out.

CLEARING HOUSE CERTIFICATES

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, August 3.—The clearing house committee, at a conference today decided to issue clearing house certificates.

This is the first time these certificates have been issued since the 1907 panic.

In explanation for its act, the committee declared that it merely was a protective one. It was pointed out that there was enough currency in the United States now to take care of every conceivable need, but rather than take any chance of a shortage in currency it was decided to issue the certificates. The issuance of the certificates is expected to add the final guard around the protection placed over America's gold supply.

The committee also adopted a resolution making available in payment of balances all forms of currency issued under the authority of the National government.

Following the committee's action in voting to issue certificates, the New York State Bankers, at a meeting of their own, decided to exercise the sixty days' clause in regard to withdrawals. This means that until further notice, New York state bank depositors must give the banks sixty days' notice of their intention to withdraw funds.

The clearing house committee issued the following statement concerning its decision to issue certificates:

"At the meeting of the New York Clearing House Association this morning the situation abroad was discussed and its bearing on the business of this country was considered. It is the opinion, universally expressed, that in view of the conditions existing in every country in Europe, every means should be taken to protect the gold supply in the United States."

"It was therefore voted that for the present the Clearing House Association be placed on a certificate basis."

FRENCH ARMY READY FOR WAR

Paris, Aug. 3.—Mobilization is practically complete. The troops are concentrated at their rallying points and as rapidly as possible will be conveyed to the northern and eastern frontiers.

The order issued by the government ordered mobilization to be effected by 11:59 Sunday night. At 2 o'clock this morning the war offices received official acknowledgement of the command from the last town to report.

Heart rending scenes were enacted here today when thousands of German residents were compelled to part with their friends and in answer to the call of the German emperor, start back for Germany to take up arms against Germany's foes.

Thousands of Germans who have lived in France for many years never have taken out French citizenship papers. The majority of these have married French girls and have families. When they left today for Germany they were compelled to leave them behind, and everywhere some touching scenes were enacted when leave taking time came.

Many of the Germans who quitted Paris today, left behind them business enterprises that they had spent years in building up, wives and children that they loved, and French friends who have become very dear to them in the past years. They were bitterly resentful of the situation that had been forced upon them by the acts of the German emperor.

"We don't want war," they cried. "War is needless. And such a war as we seem to face now will be horrible. But long ago we pledged our word that if Germany ever engaged in war we would go back and fight for it. And now, no matter what the sacrifice, we are returning."

BATTLE IMMINENT IN NORTH PRUSSIA

London, August 3.—France struck back at Germany today by invading the Kaiser's empire with two corps, numbering 55,000 men. With heavy artillery, a dispatch from Paris says, they crossed the frontier near Lascouch in the Vosges mountains. The German army is advancing to meet them.

Berlin, August 3.—The first great battle between Russian and German troops probably will be fought in Northeastern Prussia. Russian artillery and a large force of infantry has already entered Germany near Schwinden.

Skirmishes between border patrols are reported from several points, but no official reports of casualties have been given out.

The censorship prevents the sending of any details of the movements of German troops.

GERMANS DEFEAT RUSSIAN FLEET

Battle Took Place Off Coast of Finland on Sunday—Russian Ships Take Refuge in Gulf of Finland Where They Are at Anchor.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Stockholm, Aug. 3.—The Russian fleet was defeated yesterday in a battle with a squadron of German warships off the Aland islands. The Russian boats put into the Gulf of Finland where they lay at anchor today.

Germany has seized the Aland islands which form part of Finland. Fisherman report that a Russian battleship has gone ashore on one of the islands.

BRITISH GOVERNMENT PREPARING FOR WAR

Foreign Minister States That France Must be Protected and Neutrality of Belgium Maintained—British Army to be Mobilized.

London, Aug. 3.—England's efforts to preserve peace among the great powers of Europe have failed and Great Britain has pledged herself to support France if a German fleet comes into the English channel or attacks the coast of France.

This momentous announcement was made in the house of commons by the Foreign Secretary, Sir Edward Grey.

Sir Edward said he understood that the German parliament would be prepared "if we can pledge neutrality," to agree that its fleet would not attack the northern coast of France.

He declared that this was a far too narrow promise.

"The consideration which is becoming more serious every hour," he said, "is Belgium's neutrality."

He said that the cabinet felt strongly that France was entitled to know immediately whether in the event of an attack on her unprotected northern and western coasts she could depend upon British support.

In asking the house to deal with this question the foreign secretary urged that the crisis be approached from the point of "British interests, honor and obligations." He said the house was free to decide what the British attitude would be as the government had not given no promise of any other than diplomatic support.

Explaining the effort to secure peace, Sir Edward said:

"It was not possible to secure the peace of Europe because there had been little time, and, furthermore, there was a disposition in some quarters to force matters rapidly to an issue."

"We have worked consistently with a single mind and with all earnestness to preserve peace," Grey continued.

"Up to yesterday Great Britain had given no promise to any country of anything more than diplomatic support. France is involved in the present war under a definite alliance with Russia but that obligation cannot apply in the same manner to England which is not a party to the Franco-Russian alliance."

The foreign secretary said that England did not construe anything in its previous diplomatic relations with other powers in this matter as restricting its freedom to decide what its attitude should be now.

"If a foreign fleet," he said, "comes down the channel and bombards the French coast, England could not stand aside."

"Is England to leave the northern and western coast of France absolutely unprotected and at the mercy of a German fleet?"

"A telegram was received from the King of Belgium," continued the secretary, "which is a supreme appeal to Great Britain to safeguard Belgium's integrity. Germany said they could not give a reply respecting Belgium's neutrality as it would disclose part of their plans of campaign."

Sir Edward added if Belgium was compelled to submit to her neutrality being violated the situation was clear.

"The British fleet is mobilized," said the secretary. "The army's mobilization is taking place, but England has not yet taken any engagement to send an expeditionary army abroad."

Grey stated that the government could not issue a proclamation of unconditional neutrality. He emphasized the fact that Ireland was

The enemy's aeroplanes were seen today between Duren and Cologne. A French monoplane is reported to have been wrecked by German sharpshooters at Wesel.

GERMAN LINER GOES DIRECT TO BREMEN

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Aug. 3.—The North German Lloyd Steamship Company this morning received a cablegram from Bremen to the effect that a wireless message had been sent to Captain Pollock of the Kronprinzessin Cecilie, directing that vessel, which has on board $10,600,000 gold, to proceed direct to Bremen without stopping at Plymouth or Cherbourg.

The officials have heard nothing of the vessel's reported capture by English warships.

Plymouth, Eng., Aug. 3.—Naval authorities here have no information as to the reported capture of the Kronprinzessin Cecilie and her treasure cargo. Great excitement was caused that the liner would not stop here.

Last reports of the ship said that she was sighted from Malinhead, on the north coast of Scotland. It is believed her captain is trying to reach Germany via North Scotland.

RAILROAD RATE DECISION MADE

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, Aug. 3.—The Interstate Commerce Commission late Saturday handed down its long deferred opinion on the application of eastern railroads for authority to increase its freight rates five per cent. The opinion is written by Commissioner Harlan in which Commissioners Clements, Clark, Meyer and Hall concur but Commissioners McChord and Daniels dissent. The principal features of the report are as follows:

1. Class rates effective in central freight association territory are so low that an increase of 5 per cent is clearly not unreasonable, except the rates on coal, coke, iron ore, cement, brick, tile, clay, starch and plaster.
2. Financial conditions of carriers in trunk line territory do not warrant a general increase of freight rates.
3. The operating income of the railroads in official classification territory is smaller than is demanded in the interest of both the general public and the railroads.
4. New England lines are disallowed proposed increases in these territories, their needs being cared for locally.
5. Practices of granting free transportation of passengers and private cars should be further restricted by the carriers.
6. Railroads required to ascertain to what extent special services rendered by carriers to shippers for which no special charge is made, constitute an unjust burden upon the carriers or result in unjust discrimination among the shippers.
7. Railroads should undertake an extensive inquiry into possible economies in operation.

Like a Lake of Flame.

One of the most remarkable of the hot springs in the Yellowstone National park is Firehole lake, in which flames seem to appear in the water. These flames are seen from only two points, and should the wind be causing a disturbance of the water the tourist may not see them at all. At the eastern end of this small lake is a circular opening of a deep seated spring not unlike other vents of thermal waters. Through this vent, which usually stands full of clear, transparent water, numerous bubbles of mingled air and superheated steam rise gradually. Before reaching the surface they unite to form one large mass that in its upward passage strikingly resembles a flame of fire. This continues until the bubble bursts, only to be followed by a repetition of the phenomenon. The explanation is that the slightly agitated water is reflected in the thin film of the ascending volume of gas. The phenomena are far better seen at Firehole lake than elsewhere, but under favorable conditions they may be seen at other localities, but in a far less striking manner.

ICE BARGE STRUCK HARRIMAN YACHT

Sunday afternoon the bowsprit of the steam yacht Sultana, owned by Mrs. E. H. Harriman, was damaged and the ice barge Sanford had its deck house smashed in when it collided with the yacht at Kingston Point Park. At the time of the collision the Sultana lay at anchor close to the pavilion and the tug Levy with a tow of ice barges bound up the river sailed by. The heavy wind and the high tide caused the Sanford one of the tug's barges to swing into toward the yacht and it crashed into the bow of the yacht damaging the bowsprit which raked the deck of the barge. The damage to the yacht was so slight that it left later in the evening for down the river. The ice barge was towed to the Baisden & Tremper boatyard in the creek for repairs. No one was injured by the accidental collision.

SLAPPED THE LADY.

Then "Turk" Thrashed Reynolds and Both Were Fined for Fighting.
Because Frank Reynolds on Saturday evening slapped Millie Todd of 613 Broadway, he was soundly whipped by Luther Quick and both were taken in charge by Police-man Phinney. On Sunday morning Quick, who is known as "Turk," was fined $25 and Reynolds assessed $10. "Turk" was unable to dig up enough cash and was sent to the county jail, while Reynolds had his fine paid for him by his employer, Mr. Powell, the truckman. As near as can be learned the fight started when Reynolds, who had been boarding with Millie, decided to change his boarding house and after taking a cargo of joy water aboard he went to Millie's house to get his clothes. An argument ensued between Millie and he and he slapped her face. "Turk," who was also in the house, did not approve of Reynolds's act and he jumped in and proceeded to whip him. The racket drew over a hundred people to the scene. Although "Turk" is lame he had no difficulty in whipping his opponent. This morning Millie was summoned to appear before the recorder and was given a severe lecture. No. 613 Broadway was recently given considerable notoriety when Claroy Fisher had Mrs. Barth arrested on a charge of lifting his roll of $30. Mrs. Barth was ordered out of town and it is understood that the police are going to clean up the house unless a change for the better is made.

PHEASANTS ARE COMING.

State Distributes Them Because of Lack of Funds for Care.
Game Protector DeWitt of this district, has just received the following communication from the chief protector:

AUG. 1, 1914.
To Protector DeWitt: The commission finds that it has an overabundance of pheasants at the state game farm. Therefore we are sending you by express a basket of these birds. Please place these pheasants in the places most suitable to their habits and carefully follow the instructions sent with the shipment. A careful liberation of these birds is necessary to insure good results.
Very truly yours,
L. LEWELLYN LEGG,
Chief protector.

In the last appropriation bill that was passed by the Legislature a sufficient amount was not appropriated to carry on the extensive work that should be done at the state game farm, consequently these birds must be set free. They will be shipped, on their receipt, to the different towns in the county that are best adapted to their habits. These birds can not be shot except on Thursdays and Saturdays of the month of October and then only the male birds can be killed.

Yacht Club Float Smashed.

Friday afternoon while the tug G. C. Adams with two ice barges were running down the river the high wind caused one of the barges to swing in and crash into the float of the Rondout Yacht Club. The float was badly damaged and the runway leading from the club house to the float was also smashed by the collision and a strip of sheathing on the club house to which the runway was fastened was torn loose. Five carpenters in the employ of the Cornell Steamboat Company were busy today repairing the damage.

Captain Meagher in behalf of the company has written Miss Mickens, thanking her for the appropriate gift, which will make a fine addition to the collection of pictures at the armory.

Cuneo for the use of the Athletic Field and to Professor Muller and his band for furnishing music for the game free of charge. They also desire to thank all who helped to make the day a success.

SCENE WHEN STOCK EXCHANGE CLOSED AND BIG FIGURES IN AMERICAN FINANCE.
The insert figures are J. P. Morgan (left) and Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo. The background photograph is of the scene in front of the New York Stock Exchange when it closed its doors for the first time in 40 years.

Four big New York brokerage firms have been forced to the wall as a result of the agitation in stocks caused by the European crisis and fear is felt for a half dozen others. In spite of J. P. Morgan's advice to "keep cool" and assurances from Secretary McAdoo, there is a panicky feeling among investors. In a statement when the Stock Exchange closed Friday for the first time since the panic of 1873 Morgan said, "It is essentially a time for American owners of securities to keep their heads and bear in mind that actual properties represented by American securities will not suffer greatly by a European war." Secretary McAdoo has recommended to the Senate Banking and Currency Commission the immediate amendment of the Aldrich-Vreeland currency law to permit the issuance at once of $500,000,000 in currency by clearing house associations throughout the country to meet the situation. The amendment would remove the restrictions limiting the benefits of the law to the six banks having 40 per cent of their capital in circulation.

EAGLES IN SESSION.

Twenty Thousand at Annual Convention in Kansas City.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Kansas City, Mo., Aug. 3.—About twenty thousand members of the Fraternal Order of Eagles are here today for the annual convention of the order, which will last six days.

They represent a membership of more than 400,000, distributed in 2,022 lodges in the United States, Canada, Mexico, Philippine Islands and Alaska.

While there will be a business meeting every day the principal object of the conclave is convivial. The Eagles meet to promote good fellowship in the organizations and provide a good time for the members.

E. J. Shannahan, president of the localerie of Eagles is chairman of the executive committee which prepared for the national convention.

Mr. Shannahan is originator of the convention slogan, "Kansas City—the Heart of America." He expects to pound that idea into the minds of every convention visitor. The executive headquarters for the powerful localerie organization are in Kansas City.

Elater Fire-Fly.

Another remarkable insect found in Mexico is the Elater fire-fly, which the Indians use as miniature torches. The men fasten them to their ankles in going through the forest, and the women wear them in their hair under a thin gauze veil. Tiny little cages are constructed in which three or four are kept for lighting purposes. The insects congregate by the thousands in many forest trees and, as if by preconcerted agreement, simultaneously flash their lights, then darken them and flash them again.

The assets of the organization are now in excess of $10,000,000. Last year the Eagles disbursed $5,200,000. The assets consist of $4,000,000 in real estate, $2,000,000 in cash, and another $2,000,000 in loans and investments. The convention is the largest of its kind ever held here, and the most elaborate preparations have been made for the entertainment of the visitors. The greatest part of the expense of holding the convention will be borne by the Kansas City aerie.

The biggest feature of the convention will be on Thursday. This will be a parade many miles in length, and will be led by a band consisting of more than 150 musicians.

Just Like a Trust Magnate.
In the second grade of a public school the teacher saw a little boy pass a note to the little girl across the aisle. On opening it she read, "dear Kathleen will you be my boy. I had one girl once but she wanted everything it saw.—Georgie."

"Turk" was unable to dig up enough cash and was sent to the county jail, while Reynolds had his fine paid for him by his employer, Mr. Powell, the truckman. As near as can be learned the fight started when Reynolds, who had been boarding with Millie, decided to change his boarding house and after taking a cargo of joy water aboard he went to Millie's house to get his clothes. An argument ensued between Millie and he and he slapped her face. "Turk," who was also in the house, did not approve of Reynolds's act and he jumped in and proceeded to whip him. The racket drew over a hundred people to the scene. Although "Turk" is lame he had no difficulty in whipping his opponent. This morning Millie was summoned to appear before the recorder and was given a severe lecture. No. 613 Broadway was recently given considerable notoriety when Charley Fisher had Mrs. Barth arrested on a charge of lifting his roll of $30. Mrs. Barth was ordered out of town and it is understood that the police are going to clean up the house unless a change for the better is made.

PHEASANTS ARE COMING.

State Distributes Them Because of Lack of Funds for Care.

Game Protector DeWitt of this district, has just received the following communication from the chief protector:

Aug. 1, 1914.
To Protector DeWitt—The commission finds that it has an overabundance of pheasants at the state game farm. Therefore we are sending you by express a basket of these birds. Please place these pheasants in the places most suitable to their habits, and carefully follow the instructions sent with the shipment. A careful liberation of these birds is necessary to insure good results.

Very truly yours,
L. LEWELLYN LEGG,
Chief protector.
In the last appropriation bill that was passed by the Legislature a sufficient amount was not appropriated to carry on the extensive work that should be done at the state game farm, consequently these birds must be set free. They will be shipped, on their receipt, to the different towns in the county that are best adapted to their habits. These birds can not be shot except on Thursdays and Saturdays of the month of October and then only the male birds can be killed.

Yacht Club Boat Smashed.

Friday afternoon while the tug G. C. Adams with two ice barges were running down the river the high wind caused one of the barges to swing in and crash into the float of the Rondout Yacht Club. The float was badly damaged and the runway leading from the club house to the float was also smashed by the collision and a strip of sheathing on the club house to which the runway was fastened was torn loose. Five carpenters in the employ of the Cornell Steamboat Company were busy today repairing the damage.

Picture for Company M.

Miss R. A. Mickens has presented Company M with a fine picture of the old National Guard, 7th Regiment, N. Y. S. M., showing the guard at Camp Worth, July 18, 1875, forming for a review. Camp Worth was located on Greenkill avenue at that time. The soldier boys are very proud of the picture which will be hung in the rooms. Captain Meagher in behalf of the company has written Miss Mickens, thanking her for the appropriate gift, which will make a fine addition to the collection of pictures at the armory.

Cuneo for the use of the Athletic Field and for the use of the band for furnishing music for the game free of charge. They also desire to thank all who helped to make the day a success.

SCENE WHEN STOCK EXCHANGE CLOSED AND BIG FIGURES IN AMERICAN FINANCE. The insert figures are J. P. Morgan (left) and Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo. The background photograph is of the scene in front of the New York Stock Exchange when it closed its doors for the first time in 40 years.

Four big New York brokerage firms have been forced to the wall as a result of the agitation in stocks caused by the European crisis and fear is felt for a half dozen others. In spite of J. P. Morgan's advice to "keep cool" and assurances from Secretary McAdoo, there is a panicky feeling among investors. In a statement when the Stock Exchange closed Friday for the first time since the panic of 1873 Morgan said, "It is essentially a time for American owners of securities to keep their heads and bear in mind that actual properties represented by American securities will not suffer greatly by a European war." Secretary McAdoo has recommended to the Senate Banking and Currency Commission the immediate amendment of the Aldrich-Vreeland currency law to permit the issuance of $500,000,000 in currency by clearing house associations throughout the country to meet the situation. The amendment would remove the restrictions limiting the benefits of the law to the so-called banks having 40 per cent of their capital in circulation.

EAGLES IN SESSION.

Twenty Thousand at Annual Convention in Kansas City.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Kansas City, Mo., Aug. 3.—About twenty thousand members of the Fraternal Order of Eagles are here today for the annual convention of the order, which will last six days.

They represent a membership of more than 400,000, distributed in 2,022 lodges in the United States, Canada, Mexico, Philippine Islands and Alaska.

While there will be a business meeting every day the principal object of the convocation is convivial. The Eagles meet to promote good fellowship in the organizations and have a good time for the members.

E. J. Shannahan, president of the local aerie of Eagles is chairman of the executive committee which prepared for the national convention.

Mr. Shannahan is originator of the convention slogan, "Kansas City—the Heart of America." He expects to pound that idea into the minds of every convention visitor. The executive headquarters for the powerful Eagle organization are in Kansas City.

The assets of the organization are now in excess of $10,000,000. Last year the Eagles disbursed $5,200,000. The assets consist of $4,000,000 in real estate, $2,000,000 in cash, and another $2,000,000 in loans and investments. The convention is the largest of its kind ever held here, and the most elaborate preparations have been made for the entertainment of the visitors. The greatest part of the expense of holding the convention will be borne by the Kansas City aerie.

The biggest feature of the convention will be on Thursday. This will be a parade many miles in length, and will be led by a band consisting of more than 150 musicians.

Elater Fire-Fly.

Another remarkable insect found in Mexico is the Elater fire-fly, which the Indians use as miniature torches. The men fasten them to their ankles in going through the forest, and the women wear them in their hair under a thin gauze veil. Tiny little cages are constructed in which three or four are kept for lighting purposes. The insects congregate by the thousands in many forest trees and, as if by preconcerted agreement, simultaneously flash their lights, then darken them and flash them again.

Just Like a Trust Magnate.

In the second grade of a public school the teacher saw a little boy pass a note to the little girl across the aisle. On opening it she read, "dear kathleen will you be my bow. I had one girl once but she wanted everything it saw.—George."

KINGSTON, N. Y., AUG. 3, 1914.

It should be understood by all newspaper readers that the whole truth about the European war is not being told in the news despatches. This is not the fault of the press, which is eager to get all the facts, but is due to the rigid censorship which is being exercised by the belligerent governments. There is a dearth of information, for example, about the actions of the Socialists, who had fancied themselves strong enough to prevent war. Probably there is more to the murder of Jean Jaures than appears. News comes by way of Switzerland that the Italian Socialists have threatened a revolution and a general strike if their Government sends a single soldier to the war, and that may be the reason why Italy remains neutral at a time when she has an excellent opportunity to even up some old grudges. There could be no wars if the masses refused to make targets of themselves for foreign sharpshooters. It is evident, however, that while the Socialists and other peace-at-any-price citizens are strong enough to embarrass their countries they have not yet acquired the power to abolish war.

Since our knowledge of the railroad business is limited, we do not undertake to pass judgment upon the decision of the Interstate Commerce Commission regarding freight rates. Naturally, railroad men desire to make their business as profitable as possible, and those who argue on the other side are principally demagogic politicians who are trying to endear themselves to that peculiar element of our population commonly referred to as "the people." We suppose, however, that our opinion is as good as any body's on the suggestion of the Commission that passenger rates instead of freight rates be raised, and we do not hesitate to pronounce it as unworthy of a high and intelligent tribunal. There is no doubt that the railroads are going to do about the strikes, imminent and in preparation, for increases of wages estimated to aggregate $100,000,000 a year. The $15,000,000 increase authorized by the Commission will not help much, even if arbitrators "split the difference." In whatever way events develop, there is bound to be dreadful trouble within a comparatively short time.

Now we know the worst. The Comptroller's clerks who spent months in examining the finances of Ulster County have made their report, and a synopsis of it has been published in The Freeman. According to these little fellows, every official who has handled any of the county's money is a law-breaker. No body has stolen anything. The county has had value received for every dollar expended. It appears, however, that there were irregularities and illegalities of form, although it is just possible that some of the lawyers who advised the county officers may know as much as the little chaps who have made a report. These "examiners" assert that since 1909 something over $36,000 has been improperly taken from the county treasury. According to these jackasses The Freeman has illegally received $525 for printing assessment rolls. No claim is made that the price is not a just one, nor that the work was not well done. The point made is that instead of billing the county we should have rendered a separate bill to each tax district. The taxpayers would have had to pay just the same and much inconvenience would have been caused. Our own case is typical. Ulster County is not out 36 cents. The irregularities to which attention has been called are trivial. They do not warrant the payment of the large sums made to the heelers who spent days in running down an error of five cents in the books of the Treasurer. The height of absurdity is reached when the District Attorney is instructed to take action against the offenders. That officer has better use for his time than in asking the grand jury to indict somebody who made an entry in red instead of black ink or who charged for doing work which the statute directed him to do. This is the third "investigation" we have had in this city and county within a few years, and not one of them disclosed a fact of any importance. The political hangers-on who have been employed in this way will be looking for jobs after this year. The best employment for them is to be set to work counting the hairs on caterpillars for the entomological bureau.

SIMPLE FRIENDLINESS.

(By Our Woman Editor.)

When Susan B. Anthony was presented to the Empress of Germany, so the story runs, that much titled lady insisted that she sit down while she was talking to her, and they chatted away, just woman to woman. The unexpected departure from courtly dignity and stiff regulations so impressed Miss Anthony that in writing to friends at home she enthusiastically assured them that the Empress was more than an Empress—she was a lady.

And one believes that if her words might have floated over the sea and on to the throne where the Empress sat, or into the heart of her home—which is better than all the thrones in the world—she would have been thrilled at their meaning and would have cared more for the depth of praise than for the most sweeping deference that ever was hers. And of course, the years have brought her unstinted deference.

Because the title of Empress did not come to her by grace of herself, her merit, her service, or even her charm; she was just a creature of circumstances, as all Emperors are. But the sweet, old fashioned, very eloquent title of lady, as bestowed by Miss Anthony, came because she went out of her courtly way to earn it, and because, back of the Empress and far above the Empress, was the womanly heart that cast the Empress aside.

But it isn't alone for an Empress to learn, or to know herself without any teaching, that life's most royal folk are those who are human and natural and friendly, whether they abide far up on the heights or down in the lesser places; it is for us all. Because we folk, far removed from Emperors may, if we like, play at the "mighty" game, may grow as pretentious and stiff as we please and may count it quite beyond our dignity to be cordial and free with folk below our own little stations.

But, after all, we won't be Emperors; and, more's the pity—we won't even be ladies! And that beautiful title is open to all unless something stands in the way, something very snobbish and small.

And isn't it strange that we do not better understand that simple friendliness is always returned in marvelous coin? Strange, too, we do not often believe and know that in spite of differences in grades of culture, degrees of wealth and striking gifts of nature there always are interesting faces and minds, and more interesting heads, over the way, regardless of the barriers that seem to

Stranger, yet, we do not remember that firmly included in life's insistent demands is the earnest call for a kindly demeanor.

Strangest of all, we do not act as if we believed it true that warm, impulsive, friendly natures are loved and welcomed wherever they go.

Strange, once again, that the sweet, friendly, simple manner of a child ever is uprooted and that in its beautiful place come the iron rulings of conventionality and the eternal propounding of the social catechism. Little folk, you know, do not stop to measure the spread of one's lands, and the wealth of one's possessions, before they make up their true little minds to let their friendliness reach out. They are as likely to let their smiles and their small confidences go to the seats of the lowly as up to the thrones where the mighty are gathered, and the big folk, whatever their station, who come within the horizon of their dear spirit of friendliness are instinctively fascinated by the showing, and are glad to smile back.

And the pity of it is that the flight of years and the deep hedges and barriers, that often enough are very falsely built, ever drive away the natural impulse to be friendly, warm-hearted and a bit unconventional. For the world would be far more livable, far more lovable, if little folk were marshaled into the grown-up land without any curbing of the friendly spirit born with them, and if they counted it quite the right thing to select friends—just because, without any undue reference to fixed rules and regulations.

If that were the way of the world, with much of our stiff conventionalities buried away forever, perhaps some of us would be mightily surprised to learn the impressive numbers of nature's nobility quietly living their lives in the background, glad to welcome the "one touch of nature" that "makes the whole world kin."

A Diplomat.

Former Secretary of the Treasury MacVeagh is usually a silent individual, but he has a reserve of conversation which is of the hundred horse power variety, as a certain constable found out to his great discomfort not long ago. The secretary was riding in his automobile one Sunday afternoon in Maryland, near the boundary line of the District of Columbia.

Cabinet officers are generally regarded as exempt from such petty annoyances as would rise from a constable; but this one was out for arrests, and, following the secretary's machine, hopped on the footboard and told the secretary he was exceeding the speed limit by about two miles.

"My machine is a trifle out of order," politely returned the secretary, "and I am afraid if I stop I cannot get it going again."

"Then I'll stick with you till you get home," returned the constable, who sized up a fat fine, of which he got half.

The secretary drove on silently, not increasing or slackening his speed. He spoke not a word, until he had shot across the boundary line of the District of Columbia. Then he turned upon the constable and began to speak.

Finally the constable realized he was in the District of Columbia and not in Maryland, where he had some authority. Dropping to the ground, he ran as fast as he could in the opposite direction. Washington Star.

Poor Joe!

Mrs. John Astor, who is a strong supporter of the suffrage cause, recently gave a delightful address to a fashionable audience in Newport on the suffrage question.

And at the end of her address Mrs. Astor, smiling prettily, said: "But I must stop talking, or you will be reminded of the poor man who died. Someone asked what poor Joe's last words were, and a friend replied:

"He had no last words. His wife was with him to the end."—New York Herald.

The Spirit of '76.

A New York East Sider met a friend on the street and told him he had quit the buttonhole-making trade.

"I'm in the art business now," he said, proudly—"such a fine business too. Lots of money in it!"

"What do you mean—art business?" demanded his friend. "Well," explained the East Sider, "I go by auction sales and I buy pictures cheap; then I sell 'em high. Yesterday I bought a picture for $25 and today I sold it for fifty."

"What was the subject?" "It wasn't no subject at all," said the art collector—"it was a picture."

"Sure. I know, but what did it represent?" "How should I know," said the puzzled ex-buttonholer. "To me a picture is a picture! This here picture now didn't have no name. It was a picture of three fellows and one flag. One feller had a fife, one feller had a drum, and one feller had a headache."—Saturday Evening Post.

Wanted No Amateurs.

Edith and Flora were spending their summer vacation in the country.

"Do you know," said Edith, "that young farmer tried to kiss me. He told me that he had never kissed any girl before."

"What did you tell him?" asked Flora. "Why," replied Edith, "I told him I was no agricultural experiment station."—Harper's Bazar.

Except the Mayor.

Footie, the comedian, dined one day at a country inn, and the landlady asked how he liked his fare. "I enjoyed it as well as any man in England," cried Footie. "Except the mayor," cried the landlady. "I enjoyed it," said he. "But you mustn't!" "You mustn't," at length a petty magistrate took Footie before the mayor, who observed that it had been customary in that town for a great number of years always to "except the mayor," and accordingly fined him a shilling for not conforming to ancient custom. Upon this decision Footie paid the shilling, at the same time observing that he thought the landlady the greatest fool in Christendom—except the mayor.—Christian Register.

Yacht Racers' Clambake.

There was a meeting of the Hudson River Yacht Racing Association at the house of the Newburgh Yacht Club on Sunday morning to make arrangements for the annual cruise and clambake at Newburgh on August 8. The meeting was called by Sanford B. Chamberlain, vice commodore of the Newburgh club and chairman of the entertainment committee. Reports from committees showed that the clambake will be held at 6 p. m. and dancing will begin at 8:30 o'clock. Nine clubs have notified the Newburgh hosts that representatives from their organizations will be on hand and it Walked Off the Dock.

A young man much under the influence of liquor walked off the dock of the Central-Hudson Steamboat Company about midnight Saturday. His cries for help brought a passenger and the nightwatchman from the steamer Homer Ramsdell, which was tied up nearby. After much difficulty they brought him ashore and took him to the engine room where his clothes were dried. As the rescued man bemoaned the fact that he had lost a bottle of whiskey in his struggles in the water.

Mangled by Mowing Machine.

A boy named Levy, aged about 8 years and a city boarder with his mother, at Schwartz's boarding house in Saxton, was severely injured on Friday afternoon. The lad was riding with a farm hand on a mowing machine at work in a meadow and accidentally fell off the seat in front of the rapidly moving blades. Before the horses were brought to a stop the boy's right arm and leg were literally chewed into bits, though both will be saved. Dr. Diedling of Saugerties and Dr. Holcomb of Palenville attended to the lad's injuries.

Rondout Yacht Club Meeting.

A regular monthly meeting of the Rondout Yacht Club will be held at the club house on Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock. A question of holding a clam bake will be discussed.

KINGSTON, N. Y., AUG. 3, 1914.

It should be understood by all newspaper readers that the whole truth about the European war is not being told in the news despatches. This is not the fault of the press, which is eager to get all the facts, but is due to the rigid censorship which is being exercised by the belligerent governments. There is a dearth of information, for example, about the actions of the Socialists, who had fancied themselves strong enough to prevent war. Probably there is more to the murder of Jean Jaurès than appears. News comes by way of Switzerland that the Italian Socialists have threatened a revolution and a general strike if their Government sends a single soldier to the war, and that may be the reason why Italy remains neutral at a time when she has an excellent opportunity to even up some old grudges. There could be no wars if the masses refused to make targets of themselves for foreign sharpshooters. It is evident, however, that while the Socialists and other peace-at-any-price citizens are strong enough to embarrass their countries they have not yet acquired the power to abolish war.

Since our knowledge of the railroad business is limited, we do not undertake to pass judgment upon the decision of the Interstate Commerce Commission regarding freight rates. Naturally, railroad men desire to make their business as profitable as possible, and those who argue on the other side are principally demagogic politicians who are trying to endear themselves to that peculiar element of our population commonly referred to as "the people." We suppose, however, that our opinion is as good as any body's on the suggestion of the Commission that passenger rates instead of freight rates be raised, and we do not hesitate to pronounce it as unworthy of a high and intelligent tribunal. There is no going to do about the strikes, imminent and in preparation, for increases of wages estimated to aggregate $100,000,000 a year. The $15,000,000 increase authorized by the Commission will not help much, even if arbitrators "split the difference." In whatever way events develop, there is bound to be a dreadful trouble within a comparatively short time.

Now we know the worst. The Comptroller's clerks who spent months in examining the finances of Ulster County have made their report, and a synopsis of it has been published in The Freeman. According to these little fellows, every official who has handled any of the county's money is a law-breaker. Nobody has stolen anything. The county has had value received for every dollar expended. It appears, however, that there were irregularities and illegalities of form, although it is just possible that some of the lawyers who advised the county officers may know as much as the little chaps who have made a report. These "examiners" assert that since 1909 something over $36,000 has been improperly taken from the county treasury. According to these jackasses The Freeman has illegally received $525 for printing assessment rolls. No claim is made that the price is not a just one, nor that the work was not well done. The point made is that instead of billing the county we should have rendered a separate bill to each tax district. The taxpayers would have had to pay just the same and much inconvenience would have been caused. Our own case is typical. Ulster County is not out 36 cents. The irregularities to which attention has been called are trivial. They do not warrant the payment of the large sums made to the heelers who spent days in running down an error of five cents in the books of the Treasurer. The height of absurdity is reached when the District Attorney is instructed to take action against the offenders. That officer has better use for his time than in asking the grand jury to indict somebody who made an entry in red instead of black ink or who charged for doing work which the statute directed him to do. This is the third "investigation" we have had in this city and county within a few years, and not one of them disclosed a fact of any importance. The political hangers-on who have been employed in this way will be looking for jobs after this year. The best employment for them is to be set to work counting the hairs on caterpillars for the entomological bureau.

SIMPLE FRIENDLINESS.

(By Our Woman Editor.)

When Susan B. Anthony was presented to the Empress of Germany, so the story runs, that much titled lady insisted that she sit down while she was talking to her, and they chatted away, just woman to woman. The unexpected departure from courtly dignity and stiff regulations so impressed Miss Anthony that in writing to friends at home she enthusiastically assured them that the Empress was more than an Empress—she was a lady.

And one believes that if her words might have floated over the sea and on to the throne where the Empress sat, or into the heart of her home—which is better than all the thrones in the world—she would have been thrilled at their meaning and would have cared more for the depth of praise than for the most sweeping deference that ever was hers. And of course, the years have brought her unstinted deference. Because the title of Empress did not come to her by grace of herself, her merit, her service, or even her charm; she was just a creature of circumstances, as all Emperors are. But the sweet, old fashioned, very eloquent title of lady, as bestowed by Miss Anthony, came because she went out of her courtly way to earn it, and because, back of the Empress and far above the Empress, was the womanly heart that cast the Empress aside.

But it isn't alone for an Empress to learn, or to know herself without any teaching, that life's most royal folk are those who are human and natural and friendly, whether they abide far up on the heights or down in the lesser places; it is for us all. Because we folk, far removed from Emperors may, if we like, play at the "mighty" game, may grow as pretentious and stiff as we please and may count it quite beyond our dignity to be cordial and free with folk below our own little stations. But, after all, we won't be Emperors; and, more's the pity—we won't even be ladies! And that beautiful title is open to all: unless something stands in the way, something very enobish and small.

And isn't it strange that we do not better understand that simple friendliness is always returned in marvelous coin? Strange, too, we do not often believe and know that in spite of differences in grades of culture, degrees of wealth and striking gifts of nature there always are interesting faces and minds, and more interesting heads, over the way, regardless of the barriers that seem to divide.

Stranger, yet, we do not remember that firmly included in life's insistent demands is the earnest call for a kindly demeanor.

Strangest of all, we do not act as if we believed it true that warm, impulsive, friendly natures are loved and welcomed wherever they go.

Strange, once again, that the sweet, friendly, simple manner of a child ever is uprooted and that in its beautiful place come the iron rulings of conventionality and the "eternal propounding of the social catechism. Little folk, you know, do not stop to measure the spread of one's lands, and the wealth of one's possessions, before they make up their true little minds to let their friendliness reach out. They are as likely to let their smiles and their small confidences go to the seats of the lowly as up to the thrones where the mighty are gathered, and the big folk, whatever their station, who come within the horizon of their dear spirit of friendliness are instinctively fascinated by the showing, and are glad to smile back.

And the pity of it is that the flight of years and the deep hedges and barriers, that often enough are very falsely built, ever drive away the natural impulse to be friendly, warm-hearted and a bit unconventional. For the world would be far more livable, far more lovable, if little folk were marshaled into the grown-up land without any curbing of the friendly spirit born with them, and if they counted it quite the right thing to select friends—just because, without any undue reference to fixed rules and regulations. If that were the way of the world, with much of our stiff conventionalities buried away forever, perhaps some of us would be mightily surprised to learn the impressive numbers of nature's nobility quietly living their lives in the background, glad to welcome the "one touch of nature" that "makes the whole world kin."

A Diplomat.

Former Secretary of the Treasury MacVeagh is usually a silent individual, but he has a reserve of conversation which is of the hundred horse power variety, as a certain constable found out to his great discomfort not long ago. The secretary was riding in his automobile one Sunday afternoon in Maryland, near the boundary line of the District of Columbia.

Cabinet officers are generally regarded as exempt from such petty annoyances as would rise from a constable; but this one was out for arrests, and, following the secretary's machine, hopped on the footboard and told the secretary he was exceeding the speed limit by about two miles.

"My machine is a trifle out of order," politely returned the secretary, "and I am afraid if I stop I cannot get it going again."

"Then I'll stick with you till you get home," returned the constable, who sized up a fat fine, of which he got half.

The secretary drove on silently, not increasing or slackening his speed. He spoke not a word, until he had shot across the boundary line of the District of Columbia. Then he turned upon the constable and began. He used words the man had never heard before.

Finally the constable realized he was in the District of Columbia and not in Maryland, where he had some authority. Dropping to the ground, he ran as fast as he could in the opposite direction. Washington Star.

Poor Joe!

Mrs. John Astor, who is a strong supporter of the suffrage cause, recently gave a delightful address to a fashionable audience in Newport on the suffrage question.

"He had no last words. His wife was with him to the end."—New York Herald.

The Spirit of '76.

A New York East Sider met a friend on the street and told him he had quit the buttonhole-making trade.

"I'm in the art business now," he said, proudly—"such a fine business too. Lots of money in it!"

"What do you mean—art business?" demanded his friend.

"Well," explained the East Sider, "I go by auction sales and I buy pictures cheap; then I sell 'em high. Yesterday I bought a picture for $25 and today I sold it for fifty."

"What was the subject?" "It wasn't no subject at all," said the art collector—"it was a picture."

"Sure, I know, but what did it represent?" "How should I know?" said the puzzled ex-buttonholer. "To me a picture is a picture! This here picture now didn't have no name. It was a picture of three fellers and one flag. One feller had a fife, one feller had a drum and one feller had a headache."—Saturday Evening Post.

Except the Mayor.

Footie, the comedian, dined one day at a country inn, and the landlord asked him his fare. "I have dined as well as any man in England," said Footie. "Except the mayor," cried the landlord. "I except nobody," said he. "But you must!" screamed the host. "I won't!" "You must." At length a petty magistrate took Footie before the mayor, who observed that it had been customary in that town for a great number of years always to "except the mayor," and accordingly fined him a shilling for not conforming to ancient custom. Upon this decision Footie paid the shilling, at the same time observing that he thought the landlord the greatest fool in Christendom—except the mayor.—Christian Register.

GIANTS FOR TRAFFIC SQUAD

(By Gotham-Knickerbocker.)

New York, August 3.—It was Frederick the Great of Prussia, if I remember rightly, who stole giants, when he could not coax them, from all over Europe in order to have a body guard of big men.

Right here in New York Police Commissioner Arthur Woods is building up a regiment which would have made the eyes of the old fighter of the eighteenth century turn green. He has given orders that every candidate for a position in the police traffic squad must be six feet tall. And most of them are well over the mark.

He's gone farther than Frederick, too. The Prussian's giants are described as often lumbering creatures, big, helpless men. Commissioner Woods has just established a school in which he is whipping his traffic Goliaths into a most polished force. The traffic policeman needs polish, whether he is the pedestrian standing majestically in the centre of the humming street intersection, or the dashing cavalryman riding his glossy chestnut charger to the scene of bickering between draymen.

He needs polish in the afternoon crowd of Fifth avenue where he checks the cavalcades of limousines with a wave of the hand and pilots from curb to curb richly gowned women and the other multitudinous habits of the newest shopping district. He has the grace of Arthur in giving a common place direction to a stranger and the kindness of Galahad as he assists a feeble grandmother to a high street car step.

But even more he needs polish on the cobblestones of West street, where mighty floods of enormous drays and auto trucks rumble from farms, freight yards, factories and warehouses, clashing, eddying, overflowing to the sidewalks and giving to the spectator some vision of what the greatest port in the world means.

Suddenly the busy current of trade is dammed. The mounted policeman sees the cause far down the street. Two trucks are locked. He pushes his intelligent horse through narrow lanes to the scene. Two obstinate drivers are exhibiting a vocabulary that would shame Billingsgate.

"Officer, dis feller bunked right into me front wheel and tol' me to go 't'ell when I asked him to back up a bit."

"He's a dirty, dago liar, officer, how could I move when he tries to run over me!"

"Now, now stop that cursing, both of you, and back up a bit!" cries the bluecoated arbiter.

"I'll not move—he kin go 't'ell!"

"You'll have to come to court for that."

The policeman pulls out a summons blank, fills it out and hands it to the offender. Then he leaps from his horse, and soon the two trucks are moving in a steady procession again.

The traffic policeman is "simply grand" now, any matinee girl will tell you that. But they'll be better, Commissioner Woods is sure, when the effects of the new school are seen.

It has heretofore been the custom when men applied for traffic assignments to examine them only briefly as to their knowledge of the regulations. Now candidates, all six-footers, will be put through a two weeks course of tuition. Not all who enter the school will "pass." Those who fail must go back to regular station house jobs.

Those who are found competent will be placed on an eligible list. When vacancies occur they will be detailed. Men now in the traffic service may eventually be ordered to take a post graduate course.

The school will make the work of the traffic division uniform. A signal to stop or to go ahead will be the same in Manhattan, the Bronx, or Brooklyn.

Drivers have a slang term for the traffic policeman, the "Big Hand." Mr. Woods will make the traffic men more than ever before a "big hand."

All orders are to be given by the hand when possible. Conversation is to be limited strictly. And when it becomes necessary to speak to a driver, the traffic policeman will tell him to do so and so quietly. There will be no threatening or yelling.

Commissioner Woods will educate the public as well. This work was started by his predecessor, Douglas McKay, who had one hundred thousand folders on "Regulations for Street Traffic," printed and distributed to the police stations where they are handed out to drivers and chauffeurs and have proved of great value.

There was a time when New York had no traffic squad. Then the conditions near the ferries sometimes became frightful. Jams lasted half a day, and disputes over precedent were often settled with the drivers' fists.

Fifth avenue in winter time when snow was piled up was almost impassable, too.

It took a long hard campaign, led by V. P. Eno before the traffic system was instituted. But now New York leads the world and European municipal officials often study our methods.

The traffic policemen cost several million dollars a year. They are well worth it. They save money to businessmen seeking to make quick deliveries and they save lives by reducing the number of street accidents.

Points for Mothers

The Boy's Model.

In the Woman's Home Companion Mary Heaton Vorse, writing a story entitled "His Manly Dignity," comments as follows on the practice of urging small boys "to be a man like father."

"From earliest infancy they implore their boy children to 'be a man.' That glorious goal is pointed out to a boy baby from the moment he can understand anything. He is not only told to 'be a man,' but to 'be a man like father.' I often wonder how the fathers bear it. I often wonder how they can stand there apparently so snug and contented when this ideal of conduct is suggested to their innocent babies. Don't they really see themselves, I wonder? Aren't there some of them at this who have a sudden, beneficent impulse to exterminate their own sons if the feat of growing up to be a man like father is all that awaits the innocent before them? How can they bear the adoring gaze that their little sons fasten upon them?"

"Some little boys have a trick of looking so much more like real men with all the qualities that we love to think of as belonging to the most manly of men than grownup men do. I have seen them stamping down the street, still in skirts, and a man in the fullness of his powers couldn't have better exemplified finer masculine traits."

"No one tells little girls to hurry up and 'be a woman like mother.'"

Training the Ears.

A child should never be permitted to insert anything in its ear. Often if there is an itching sensation a child will poke in the head of a pin. This is altogether wrong and may bring about deafness.

In training the ears to lie straight in babyhood it is wrong to let the little one lie with its ears crumpled. Straighten them and see that they stay so.

In putting on a child's cap see that both ears are properly placed, as the cartilage, being so soft, the weight of a ribbon string may keep it out of place.

So much is done in the line of surgery these days that parents who can afford the prices should have any deformity of the ears attended to at as early an age as possible. It is not right to permit anything of the kind to be endured through life if it can be avoided.

Often after such diseases as measles, scarlet fever, etc., the hearing is defective. This comes from the inflammation of the ear drum and seems almost impossible to avoid. If there is a constant running from the ears of a child an aurist should be consulted immediately. There is a cause that should be treated without delay.

Canopies For Cribs.

A better protection for the baby's crib than is the length of quilting that goes around the four sides of the little one's daytime sleeping place is the tent canopy. It hangs from a hook in the ceiling, falls straight to the floor and may be drawn about the crib in a manner to protect the occupant thoroughly from whatever direction a draft is likely to come.

Yet at the same time the baby gets plenty of air, as no matter in what portion of the room the crib is placed the curtaining need go only part way around it.

Some mothers have these tent canopies in printed cretonne, but they are daintier and quite as serviceable in a lingerie or a muslin curtaining material, which may be finished with lace rufflings. Along the lower edges they are lead weighted so that they shall not blow about.

Hot Weather Tempos.

Many minor ailments—and much bad temper—can be prevented by intelligent anticipation.

The first signs of trouble are seen in restlessness at night and fidgetiness by day, a tendency to crossness and often to disobedience and fretfulness. Sometimes a tiny rash under the skin will be seen after a fairly warm bath, and a child suffers from capriciousness of appetite (which is not the same thing as loss of appetite, though this, too, may be present) and generally shows a tendency to either constipation or diarrhea.

Now, all these, temper and troubles of physical conditions alike, are due to the overheated condition of the blood, and a little simple dosing and careful dieting will soon mend matters.

Medicine Cakes.

Some children who refuse to take castor oil make no fuss if it is given in this way: Take one cupful of milk, one of molasses, half a cupful of sugar, half a cupful of castor oil, a teaspoonful of soda, two of ginger, a little salt and enough flour to make a stiff paste. Roll out, cut into shapes and bake in a quick oven. One or two are as good as a dose of oil.

Use For Gay Rugs.

Very cheap and gaudy little bath rugs that would look too garishly bright on the quiet inside of a house are delightful when bought for the garden. The tots are not so likely to take cold when they sit on a rug and play quiet games as when they roll on the ground which is likely to be damp.

Pray and You Will Receive.

As the family was about to leave the dinner table little Elsie was observed with her head bowed and her hands clasped. "Why, Elsie," said her mother, "don't you know that dinner is over?" "Don't interrupt me, please," replied Elsie. "I'm praying for another dish of that puddin'!"—Chicago News.

Her Predicament.

Poor mother hangs around the aisle With deeper distress to voice. The hats are always out of style Ere she can make a choice. —Kansas City Journal.

Foiled!

Mr. Crimmonbeak—I see a novel departure has been made in New South Wales by starting plowing at night. Mrs. Crimmonbeak—Just think! There is a new excuse for you to try and out over for staying out late at night!—Yonkers Statesman.

David Smith, Able Seaman

By LOUISE B. CUMMINGS

Captain Williams of the United States navy having had quite a long term of sea service was ordered to the command of one of the finest naval stations on the New England coast.

Miss Nellie Williams was in the heyday of youth, and visions of all sorts of pleasures danced in her head, the principal of which was flirting with the young officers with whom she would be thrown into contact. Her mother rejoiced that she would be able to introduce her daughter into society, which she could not have otherwise done because neither her husband nor herself had any fortune, and she was obliged to live a retired life.

But no sooner had the captain assumed command and his family been installed in the best quarters at the station than Miss Nellie must needs spoil it all by casting to the winds the most sacred traditions of the service. Of all the officers at the station, including several midshipmen of a suitable age to interest a girl of seventeen, not one succeeded in sufficiently engaging her attention to save her from bestowing not only it, but her whole heart, on an enlisted man.

No one can tell what a girl between fifteen and twenty is going to do, and when she does it no one can stop her. The difference in the navy between an enlisted man and an officer can best be illustrated by comparing a bramble bush with a pine tree. There are in these times many fine young men among the United States tars, but the grandson of a millionaire can no more overstep this sharply defined line between officer and enlisted man than can the cook in the galley.

A girl of seventeen is as easily caught as the stupidest fish that swims, and no one can tell who will catch her. Miss Williams one day went aboard a ship docked at the yard. And there she saw the young man who caught her. What it was in him that caught her no one could tell. True, he was a pretty boy, but there were other pretty boys who wore officers' uniforms, while the young man in question wore the sailor's cap, the blue flannel shirt with broad collar and the trousers tight about the hips and loose below the knee of a common sailor.

Now, Captain Williams, who found no difficulty in commanding his station, consisting of many strong men, found himself unable to discipline his daughter. He threatened, if ever she was caught speaking to the youngster again, to send her away. She made promises, but they were not kept. He would have ordered the sailor—David Smith was the name on his ship's roster—away from the station, but Miss Nellie's infatuation had become known and such action would be considered using official power to serve private interests, and the captain was very sensitive on such a point. Moreover, he feared that if he "put on the screws" his daughter might run away with the tar. This would not only tie her up to a common sailor, but a deserter.

How, when and where the tar and the captain's daughter contrived to hold their meetings no one knew. At least no one would tell. They had many adherents among the sailors, but none among the officers or their families. Finally it became apparent to

SERBIAN KING, A TROOP OF HIS CAVALRY AND A SERBIAN RED CROSS CORPS.

Above, troop of Serbian Cavalry, the most picturesque soldiers in the world. Below, Serbian Red Cross corps now doing splendid work on bloody battle fields, and King Peter of Serbia who has assumed charge of a division of the Serbian Army.

Captain and Mrs. Williams that something must be done, and one morning Miss Nellie was informed that she was to be taken back to the quiet home. There was nothing to do but submit, and what had promised to be such a fine thing for them ended in disappointment. And all this on account of Miss Nellie's having fallen in love with a common sailor instead of an officer.

One day Captain Williams received from Washington the discharge papers of a sailor named Howard Singleton. The discharge had been granted by the secretary of the navy at the request of the British minister. The case was brought to the commander's attention by the officer having the care of discharges because there was no such person as Howard Singleton at the station.

"Make inquiries for him," said the Captain; "he may have enlisted under an assumed name."

The officer retired and soon after returned with David Smith, able seaman. The captain, who knew him well, having had an interview with him concerning his daughter, looked at him in astonishment. "Is your name Singleton?" asked Captain Williams.

"It is."

"Are you a British subject?"

"I am. My father is Sir Charles Singleton, a shipbuilder on the Clyde in Scotland. He builds ships for the British navy. I am to enter his service, but thought it better to learn something of warships by serving awhile on one of them. In the British navy I could not have preserved my income, so I chose the United States service."

"Ahem! And you go from here to Scotland to enter your father's works?"

"I do. But after consultation with my father I shall return for a purpose."

"What purpose?"

"To ask the hand of your daughter." "Tm!" mumbled the captain. "Perhaps you'd better see your father about that."

Singleton went home, returned and took Nellie Williams back to Scotland with him.

How Yucatan Gets Its Water.

In Yucatan the people depend for their water supply chiefly on what are known as "cenotes" or subterranean reservoirs, fed by hidden underground lakes or a network of water courses. Some of these are so near the surface that the soil has given way and left a surface pond or reservoir; others again are reached only by powerful pumps or a system of ladders by which the women descend into enormous caverns or traverse narrow galleries to fill their jars from the hidden springs, and in some cases the entrance to these deep caverns is a considerable distance from the nearest village or farm. Sometimes a crust of rock if left over such a "cenote," with an aperture through which the daylight reaches the cavern, forming a real grotto, with stalactites and stalagmites of considerable beauty.

Nearly all of the ancient cities and modern towns and haciendas are located near some one of these subterranean water caverns.—Charles Winslow Lin' in National Magazine.

GIANTS FOR TRAFFIC SQUAD

(By Gotham-Knickerbocker.)

New York, August 3.—It was Frederick the Great of Prussia, if I remember rightly, who stole giants, when he could not coax them, from all over Europe in order to have a body guard of big men.

Right here in New York Police Commissioner Arthur Woods is building up a regiment which would have made the eyes of the old fighter of the eighteenth century turn green.

He has given orders that every candidate for a position in the police traffic squad must be six feet tall. And most of them are well over the mark.

He's gone farther than Frederick, too. The Prussian's giants are described as often lumbering creatures, big helpless men. Commissioner Woods has just established a school in which he is whipping his traffic Goliaths into a most polished force. The traffic policeman needs polish, whether he is the pedestrian standing majestically in the center of the humming street intersection, or the dashing cavalier riding his glossy chestnut charger to the scene of bickering between draymen.

He needs polish in the afternoon crowd of Fifth avenue where he checks the cavalcades of limousines with a wave of the hand and pilots from curb to curb richly gowned women and the other multitudinous habits of the newest shopping district. He has the grace of Arthur in giving a common place direction to a stranger and the kindness of Galahad as he assists a feeble grandmother to a high street car step.

But even more he needs polish on the cobblestones of West street, where mighty floods of enormous drays and auto trucks rumble from farries, freight yards, factories and warehouses, clashing, eddying, overflowing to the sidewalks and giving to the spectator some vision of what the greatest port in the world means. Suddenly the busy current of trade is dammed. The mounted policeman sees the cause far down the street. Two trucks are locked. He pushes his intelligent horse through narrow lanes to the scene. Two obstinate drivers are exhibiting a vocabulary that would shame Billingsgate.

"Officer, dis feller bunked right into me front wheel and tol' me to go 'till when I asked him to back up a bit."

"He's a dirty, dago liar, officer, how could I move when he tries to run over me?"

"Now, now stop that cursing, both of you, and back up a bit!" cries the bluecoated arbiter.

"I'll not move—he kin go 'till!"

"You'll have to come to court for that."

The policeman pulls out a summons blank, fills it out and hands it to the offender. Then he leaps from his horse, seizes a bridge, shouts orders here and there and soon the trucks are moving in a steady procession again.

The traffic policeman is "simply grand" now, any martinet girl will tell you that. But they'll be better, Commissioner Woods is sure, when the effects of the new school are seen.

It has heretofore been the custom when men applied for traffic assignments to examine them only briefly as to their knowledge of the regulations. Now candidates, all six-footers, will be put through a two weeks course of tuition. Not all who enter the school will "pass." Those who fail must go back to regular station house jobs. Those who are found competent will be placed on an eligible list. When vacancies occur they will be detailed. Men now in the traffic service may eventually be ordered to take a post graduate course.

The school will make the work of the traffic division uniform. A signal to stop or to go ahead will be the same in Manhattan, the Bronx, or Brooklyn.

Drivers have a slang term for the traffic policeman, the "Big Hand." Mr. Woods will make the traffic men more than ever before a "big hand."

All orders are to be given by the hand when possible. Conversation is to be limited strictly. And when it becomes necessary to speak to a driver, the traffic policeman will tell him to do so and so quietly. There will be no threatening or yelling.

Commissioner Woods will educate the public as well. This work was started by his predecessor, Douglas L. McKay, who had one hundred thousand folders on "Regulations for Street Traffic," printed and distributed to the police stations where they are handed out to drivers and chauffeurs and have proved of great value.

There was a time when New York had no traffic squad. Then the conditions near the ferries sometimes became frightful. Jams lasted half a day, and disputes over precedent were often settled with the drivers' fists. Fifth avenue in winter time when snow was piled up was almost impassible, too.

It took a long hard campaign, led by W. P. Enn for the traffic system was instituted. But now New York leads the world and European municipal officials often study our methods.

The traffic policemen cost several million dollars a year. They are well worth it. They save money to businessmen seeking to make quick deliveries and they save lives by reducing the number of street accidents.

Myrtle Wedding Wreaths.

On her wedding day the Danish peasant girl wears a simple crown of myrtle with her national costume—varying with the district, but always charming—and pots of myrtle are carefully cherished by girlish hands through the long winters in anticipation of the great event.

Feline Music.

Scarlatini, the Italian composer, owned a cat which loved to walk on the keys of a piano and struck certain notes in preference to others. The composer took those notes as the theme of one of his fugues, which for that reason received the name of "The Cat Fugue."

Are You Eating Squabs Regularly?

You ought to. They are delicious. Squabs are young pigeons only four weeks old. Perhaps you have bought in the markets old pigeons, often offered as squabs. They are comparatively tough and stringy. The genuine squabs, such as we sell, are right out of the nest, fat, plump, juicy, weighing from fourteen ounces to a pound apiece. They are fully feathered. Same as old birds. Squabs are highly esteemed as an article of food because the juice of the squab (which is pure liquid protoplasm) is the most nourishing and vitalizing fluid known. In fact there is no bird or flesh food that can equal the squab for condensed nourishment. We can supply squabs at any time on receipt of your order. Prices 75 cents per pair, by parcel post 15 cents extra.

Charles Comiskey, Owner of the Chicago White Sox.

CATCHER OF ST. LOUIS FEDS

Former New York Giant Star Is Doing Good Work Behind the Bat for Mordecai Brown's Team.

Catcher Grover Cleveland Hartley of the St. Louis club of the Federal league, was long the change catcher of the New York Giants. Last year he was transferred to the Cincinnati National league team, but he preferred joining the Federals to playing with Cincinnati, and signed with St. Louis. Hartley lives in Osgood, Ind., and has been playing professional ball for only a few years. Hartley started the season as a field club player, but on September

NOTES of the DIAMOND

The St. Louis Cardinals have a very nimble first baseman named Drexler in case Jack Miller is out of the game.

Nick Altrock of the Washington Nationals, predicts a great future for Jack Bentley, the young Washington pitcher.

If Marsans had not jumped to the Federal league he could have secured a good contract from either Brooklyn or Chicago.

There isn't a chance for Jim Thorpe to break into the Giants' lineup now that Dave Robertson has replaced Jack Murray in right field.

Shortstop Baker, who is known as Home-Run Baker No. 2, of the University of Michigan nine, has joined the Winnipeg team in the Twilight league.

Despite the recent good showing of the Browns, St. Louis fans figure that the Cardinals are more likely to finish in the first division than the Rickey clan.

Hank O'Day of the Chicago Cubs put something over on Miller Huggins of the St. Louis Cardinals when he took Pitcher Casey Hageman on waivers.

Catcher Bob Schang of the St. Joseph Western league team, brother of Wallace Schang, the famed Mackie, is having a big season and is almost bound to go up.

Manager Charley Herzog thinks that the time is not far distant when Lear, the former Princeton pitcher, will be taking his regular turn in the box for the Reds.

Pius Schwert, catcher and captain of this year's University of Pennsylvania baseball team, has signed a contract to play with the New York Americans.

Whatever might have been Russell Ford's value had he remained in the American league he is second to none in effectiveness among the Federal league twirlers.

Tex Jones of Des Moines is out for the home run record not only of the Western, but of all other leagues. He now has about 20 to his credit and the season is but half gone.

The New York Evening Sun remarks: "Charley Somers was one of the organizers of the American league, but it was not until this year that he got in on the ground floor."

Willie Mitchell of the Naps is credited with being the greatest seven-inning pitcher in the game. As a rule Willie is ready to blow the contest after the seventh round.

A Chicago critic notes that the three best pitchers on the Chicago Fed staff are not former major league stars, but practically semipro. He names them as Erwin Lange, Max Fisk and Tom McGuire. All are Chicago vacant lot products.

The Engagement Ring

It comes but once in a life-time. It means so much. It should be perfect, flawless, chaste. There's much uncertainty about diamonds except to the expert. They should be chosen at a store in which you have implicit confidence. We strive earnestly to merit such confidence. Diamonds are like gold when wisely bought. They are worth their cost anywhere on earth and are constantly increasing in value. Our gems will bring their price anywhere any time, and we guarantee them positively. Examine our rings—not only solitaires but all styles for all needs.

Was It For Him?

Blithers and Smithers were neighbors. They were friends before they became neighbors. The enmity started by Blithers' boy pushing Smithers' kid off a high picket fence and nearly breaking his young neck. Then Smithers killed four of Blithers' chickens. After that they glared at each other like a couple of horse thieves.

Blithers hired a colored man to mow this lawn. Rastus threw the grass over the fence into Smithers' yard.

"Hey, you!" yelled Smithers. "What in thunder are you doing?"

Rastus blinked.

"Das foh yo' mool, mister," he smiled. "Mule!" roared Smithers. "I ain't got no mule!"

Rastus stared.

"Ain'tcha?" he gasped. Then he scratched his head. "Das funny," he added. "De gemman what lib here say de grass foh de jackass next do?" Judge.

Entirely a Personal Matter.

Mark Twain and his peculiarities were being discussed by an English class in a western high school. One youthful orator had very eloquently described Mark's personal appearance and had laid unusual stress on the author's fondness for wearing white flannel. "Gee!" said one much interested youth. "I don't see how the public knows whether his flannels were red or white."—Everybody's Magazine.

How to Correct the Mistake.

If you misdirect a letter and think of your error just after you have dropped the letter into a box, don't waste time waiting for the postman and asking him for it to let you correct your mistake. He won't do it; the law does not permit him. You must call at the station to which the letter is going and explain the matter to the clerk in charge. He will redirect the letter for you if you give him the correct address in writing.

But He Said It.

"She ought to drop dead for the awful lies she's telling," said the plaintiff excitedly, listening to the witness for the defense. "Don't say that," admonished the judge. "She ought," repeated the plaintiff. "Don't say that again!" repeated the judge. "Well," "on't, but she ought."

must make an order, requiring the principal on the bond to give new or additional sureties as a condition precedent to releasing him from custody, as the case requires, within such reasonable time, not exceeding twenty days, as the surrogate fixes; and directing that, in default thereof, he be removed or imprisoned.

§ 267. Sureties may apply to be released as to future breaches.

Any or all of the sureties on a bond taken as provided by section 266, may present petition to the surrogate's court praying to be released from responsibility on account of any future breach of the condition of the bond, and that the principal be ordered to furnish new or additional sureties and to render and settle his account, and that a citation issue to said principal to show cause why the application should not be granted.

The release of old sureties on the giving of new.

Upon the return of the citation issued as prescribed in the last section, if the principal on the bond does not file a new bond upon which there shall be no objection or satisfaction of the surrogate, the surrogate must make an order requiring said principal to file such new bond within such reasonable time, not exceeding thirty days, as the surrogate fixes. Should the principal fail to do so, the surrogate must take proceedings to remove the petitioner from liability upon the bond for any subsequent act or default of the principal, and requiring the principal to render and settle his account to and include the interest on the sum advanced to such account within a time fixed, not exceeding twenty days from such date; otherwise he must make a decree removing him from liability on settling his terms.

§ 268. Principal may sue surrogate on bond or surty after judicial settlement.

Whenever there is pending in surrogate's court a proceeding for the intermediate removal of a person from custody of an executor, administrator, guardian or testamentary trustee who has been required to file an official bond, such principal may file in such proceeding, upon notice given to the surrogate, a bill demanding a new surty. If the surrogate grants such application he shall thereupon fix the penalty of the new bond, or the amount of the fine, and direct it to be paid, justify, and upon the filing and approval of such new bond, or of the undertaking of the new surty, the surrogate may provide in the decree of judicial settlement that the former bond or surety be discharged from and after the date of such decree from all liability, except upon appeal therefrom, as to all matters embraced therein.

§ 269. Surty liable for money, etc., extorted, received in another capacity.

A person to whom letters are issued is liable for money or other personal property obtained by extortion or unjustly, under or under his control, when his letters were issued, in whatever capacity it was received by him, or came under his control, where it was received by him, or received through him, either directly or indirectly previously issued to him in the same or another capacity, an action to recover the money, or damages for failure to demand the same, may be maintained upon both official bonds; but, as between the sureties upon the official bond given upon the issue of the prior letters, and those upon the official bond given upon the issue of the latter letters, the latter are liable over to the former.

§ 270. When bond may be prosecuted.

When an execution, issued upon a surrogate's court judgment or decree against an executor, administrator, testamentary trustee, or guardian, has been returned wholly or partly unsatisfied, an action to enforce payment of the balance due may be maintained upon his official bond by and in the name of the person in whose favor the decree was made. The plaintiff decedent is a resident of the county where he resides at the time the bond is filed.

§ 271. Successor may prosecute on decedent's bond.

If there is a successor of an executor, administrator, guardian or testamentary trustee has been appointed, he may maintain an action upon his predecessor's official bond, in which he may recover any money, or the full value of any real or personal property, received by the principal in the bond, and not duly administered by him; and to the full extent of any injury sustained by the estate of the decedent or beneficiary as the case may be, by any act or omission of the principal.

The money recovered in such an action shall belong to the estate of the decedent or to the heirs of the decedent, or to the distributees of the succession, and must be distributed or otherwise disposed of accordingly; except that a recovery for an act or omission, respecting a right of action, in respect of the performance of duties done for the benefit of the husband, wife, family, or next of kin of a decedent, or disclosed by a will for the benefit of any persons, is for the benefit of the person or persons entitled thereto.

A decree against such decedent's executor, or administrator, rendered upon a accounting under section 276 of this chapter, shall constitute a bar to any action issued upon a surrogate's decree against the property of decedent had been turned unsatisfied during decedent's lifetime.

§ 272. Action on official bond, when no successor appointed.

Where an executor, administrator, guardian or testamentary trustee has been removed, or his letters have been revoked, or the appointment of a successor has been set aside, or the party has been removed or aggrieved may, upon obtaining an order from the surrogate granting him leave to do so, maintain an action upon the official bond of the person removed, or whose letters have been revoked in behalf of himself and all others interested; in which the plaintiff may recover any money, or the full value of any other property, received by the principal in the bond, and not duly administered by him, and to the full extent of any injury sustained by the estate of the decedent, infant or beneficiary, by any act or omission of the principal.

The remedy here provided for recovery of action must be paid, by the sheriff or other officer who collects it, into the surrogate's court to be paid to a successor or to the parties entitled to distribution of the proceeds.

§ 273. Discharge of bond or undertaking even on appeal, or for the performance of an act.

An action on a bond or undertaking given upon appeal, or to insure the performance of an act by himself or another, to which no accounting is required by law for its discharge, may apply to the discharge of the bond or undertaking of one interested in the subject-matter, or the proceeding in which the bond or undertaking was given, for the discharge of the obligation or liability, in whole or in part. The court may also require the plaintiff to certify that the whole obligation or liability on the bond or undertaking is discharged, or may direct that such obligation or liability be discharged in whole or in part as may be just, and that the bond or undertaking shall thereafter have the same force and effect as if given in satisfaction for the remaining obligation or liability.

§ 274. Application of this article to executors, et cetera, heretofore appointed.

The provisions of this article apply to an executor, administrator, or guardian, appointed before the enactment of this chapter, who takes his office after the creation before this chapter takes effect; except that it does not affect, in such cases, the liability of the sureties on a bond executed before this chapter takes effect.

3. To the grandchildren.

4. To the father.

5. To the mother.

6. To the brothers.

7. To the sisters.

8. To any other next of kin entitled to share in the distribution of the estate, being living at the time of the death of the decedent.

If a person entitled to take all the personal estate is an infant, or an incompetent, or has died, his guardian, committee or legal representative, as the case may be, shall have a prior right to letters in his place and stead.

If all the persons entitled to take the personal estate are infants, or adjudged incompetent, or if no adult or competent person entitled to take or share in the estate will accept the same, letters may be granted to the general guardian of an infant, or to the committee of an incompetent, or to the next of kin of such infant or incompetent, who shall have a prior right to letters in his place and stead.

When the personal estate of a decedent is not made by consent as hereinafter provided, then shall be granted as follows:

a. To the public administrator of the county, or to the petitioner, in the discretion of the surrogate.

c. To any other person or persons.

If several persons have an equal right in the following order: First, men to women; second, relatives of the whole blood to those of the half blood; third, unmarried women to married women; and if several persons equally entitled to administration, the surrogate may grant letters to one or more of such persons. Administration may be granted to one or more competent persons, jointly or severally, and upon the application of a person entitled, or to a competent person or persons not entitled, upon the consent of all of the persons entitled to take or share in the estate, which consent must be in writing, and filed in the office of the surrogate. For the purposes of this section a trust company or other corporation authorized to act as administrator shall be included in the word "person."

258. Application for letters.

A creditor, or person interested in the estate of an intestate, or interested in an action brought or about to be brought, in which the intestate is a party, or to a proper party, may present to the surrogate's court having jurisdiction, a petition, praying for a decree awarding letters of administration, to the person or persons entitled to take or share in the estate, and a decree shall not be issued, and a decree shall not be made where a citation is not necessary, until the petitioner shows to the satisfaction of the surrogate, the facts, and particularly that the decedent left no will.

259. Citation; proceedings upon return thereof.

Every person, being a resident of the state and competent to take or share in the administration, prior or equal to that of the petitioner and who has not renounced, must be cited upon a petition for letters of administration; and where the petitioner is not entitled to take or share in the estate, the persons who are so entitled. The surrogate may, in his discretion, issue a citation to non-residents, or to any other persons interested in the estate. Where it is not necessary to cite any person, a decree granting letters may be made upon presentation of the petition. Any person who has a right to administration, prior or equal to that of the petitioner, may renounce his right by a written instrument, acknowledged, or proved, and duly certified which must be filed in the surrogate's office; except that a public administrator or county treasurer may not renounce his right and may only be excused from acting as such upon his motion duly made and upon an order made and entered thereupon by the administrator's bond.

Before letters are issued to an administrator he must file his official oath, and execute to the people of the state, and to the surrogate, a joint and several bond, with two or more sureties, in a penalty fixed by the surrogate, not less than the value of the personal property of which the decedent died possessed and not exceeding the amount of the estate, granted to an executor or administrator, by special provision of law, or by reason of a cause of action which existed in behalf of decedent, except that where the estate or persons about to be appointed is or are entitled to the whole estate, the surrogate may dispense with a bond or fix the penalty at such sum as will adequately protect the rights of all creditors. The sum to be fixed as the amount of the penalty must be ascertained by the surrogate, by the examination on oath of the applicant, or by any other person, or otherwise, as the surrogate thinks proper. The bond must be conditioned that the administrator will faithfully discharge the trust reposed in him as such and as a lawful decedent, and notice of the surrogate's court touching the administration of the estate committed to him.

In cases where the husband or wife and all the next of kin of the decedent are all persons entitled to share in the estate, the penalty of the bond need not exceed double the amount of the claims of the creditors, against the estate, presented to the surrogate, and published once a week for four weeks in such newspaper or newspapers as the surrogate shall direct, reciting an intention to apply for letters under this provision, and no bond shall be required to protect the claims of the surrogate's court on or before a day to be fixed in such notice, which shall be at least thirty days after the first publication thereof; but no bond shall be required, and such bond may be increased by order of the surrogate for cause shown. Pending such application, no temporary administrator shall be appointed, except on petition of the next of kin.

259. Limited letters may be issued; bond.

Where a right of action is granted to an executor or administrator by special provision of law, or it is alleged that a cause of action existed in behalf of decedent, and it appears to be impracticable to give a bond sufficient to cover the probable amount to be recovered in the case of an executor or administrator, the surrogate may, in his discretion, issue letters of administration, in either of the following cases:

REPUBLICANS TO HOLD CAUCUSES

They Will be Held in Each Election District in Ulster County on Thursday Evening of This Week.

Republican caucuses for the purpose of electing to the Republican county convention will be held in all the election districts of Ulster county on Thursday evening of this week. The polls in each district will be open from 7:30 o'clock until 8:30 o'clock.

Each election district in the county will elect three delegates to the county convention. The county convention will be held at the court house on Tuesday, August 11, at noon.

The Republican caucuses will be held pursuant to the action taken at the meeting of the Republican county committee in this city on June 25, and the county convention will also be held pursuant to the action taken by the committee, and further in pursuance of the call issued some time ago by the Republican State Committee.

All Republicans will be entitled to vote in Thursday night's caucuses. The resolution of the Republican county committee provides that they shall be open to all voters without regard to past political faith who believe in the principles of the Republican party and endorse its policies and are not enrolled in any other party.

Any person whose vote is challenged by a qualified voter of the caucus must make oath before the chairman of the caucus as to his qualification, and upon making such oath he shall be allowed to vote.

The caucuses Thursday night and the county convention are what are known in the election law as "unofficial primaries" and an "unofficial convention."

The delegates elected on Thursday night from the election districts composing the First Assembly District will meet to hold an assembly district convention, and the delegates elected from the election districts composing the Second Assembly District will also hold a similar convention. The delegates elected from the city of Kingston will hold a city convention.

Recommendations for the nominations for the various offices to be filled at the coming election will be made by the delegates elected at Thursday night's caucuses. The entire convention will make recommendations for the nominations for sheriff, surrogate, coroner and for members of the Republican Central Committee. All the delegates except those from the city of Kingston shall recommend for nomination a candidate for superintendent of the inferior; the assembly nominations will be recommended as stated, and the delegates from the city will make recommendations for nomination as stated.

To the Convention on August 18, at Saratoga Springs, and nominations for two delegates to the Constitutional Convention will be recommended. The county convention system will allow an expression of the Republican voters of the county which is similar to the expression which voters enjoyed before the election law was amended by the Dix, Sulzer and Glynn Administrations. The convention is "unofficial" and the recommendations made by the delegates take the place of the recommendations that were made under the Dix law which placed the duty of making recommendations in the committee which had been continued. The "unofficial convention" is not obligatory on any party but has been adopted by the Republicans of the state generally as being more in the spirit of the primary movement, and the only way in which an expression of a majority of the voters can be obtained in making recommendations for nominations.

Delegates elected on Thursday night are not allowed the power of substitution and no delegate can vote by proxy.

TRAIN WRECK IN WEEHAWKEN TUNNEL

The Catskill Mountain Express, leaving Weehawken at 11:43 Sunday morning in charge of Engineer Dennis Shay, was wrecked in the Weehawken tunnel when an axle and wheel broke on the rear truck of the ninth car of the fourteen car train. The wreck occurred near the north end of the tunnel and when brought to a stop the forward cars of the train were out of the tunnel. No one was seriously injured although passengers in the wrecked coach were badly shaken up. An engine was sent from Weehawken and the cars which remained on the track were taken back to Weehawken after a short delay. Owing to the stifling heat and the gas and smoke in the tunnel there was great danger of suffocation and had the accident occurred farther from the entrance serious results might have followed. The tracks were cleared up in an hour and a half. Both tracks were blocked by the accident and trains were late in reaching this city.

REPUBLICANS TO HOLD CAUCUSES

They Will be Held in Each Election District in Ulster County on Thursday Evening of This Week.

Republican caucuses for the purpose of electing to the Republican county convention will be held in all the election districts of Ulster county on Thursday evening of this week. The polls in each district will be open from 7:30 o'clock until 8:30 o'clock.

Each election district in the county will elect three delegates to the county convention. The county convention will be held at the court house on Tuesday, August 11, at noon.

The Republican caucuses will be held pursuant to the action taken at the meeting of the Republican county committee in this city on June 25, and the county convention will also be held pursuant to the action taken by the committee, and further in pursuance of the call issued some time ago by the Republican State Committee.

All Republicans will be entitled to vote in Thursday night's caucuses. The resolution of the Republican county committee provides that they shall be open to all voters without regard to past political faith who believe in the principles of the Republican party and endorse its policies and are not enrolled in any other party.

Any person whose vote is challenged by a qualified voter of the caucus must make oath before the chairman of the caucus as to his qualification, and upon making such oath he shall be allowed to vote.

The caucuses Thursday night and the county convention are what are known in the election law as "unofficial primaries" and an "unofficial convention."

The delegates elected on Thursday night from the election districts composing the First Assembly District will meet to hold an assembly district convention, and the delegates elected from the election districts composing the Second Assembly District will also hold a similar convention. The delegates elected from the city of Kingston will hold a city convention.

Recommendations for the nominations for the various offices to be filled at the coming election will be made by the delegates elected at Thursday night's caucuses. The entire convention will make recommendations for the nominations for sheriff, surrogate, coroner and for members of the Republican Central Committee. All the delegates except those from the city of Kingston recommend for nomination a candidate for superintendent of the poor; the assembly nominations will be recommended as stated, and the delegates from the city will make recommendations for nomination as the delegates and recorder.

To be held at the city of Kingston on Thursday night, August 13, at 8 o'clock, and the county convention will be held at the city of Kingston on Thursday night, August 13, at 8 o'clock.

The county convention system will allow an expression of the Republican voters of the county which is similar to the expression which voters enjoyed before the election law was amended by the Dix, Sulzer and Glynn Administrations. The convention is "unofficial" and the recommendations made by the delegates take the place of the recommendations that were made under the Dix law which placed the duty of making recommendations in the committee which had been continued. The "unofficial convention" is not obligatory on any party, but has been adopted by the Republicans of the state generally as being more in the spirit of the primary movement, and the only way in which an expression of a majority of the voters can be obtained in making recommendations for nominations.

Delegates elected on Thursday night are not allowed the power of substitution and no delegate can vote by proxy.

UNITED STATES HAS NO CAUSE FOR ALARM

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, Aug. 3.—The United States is prepared for every emergency caused by the European war, President Wilson today told his callers. There is no cause for excitement he added.

"We must act together as Americans to see that America does not suffer," he stated. He said that the war need not affect the United States in the long run.

The present condition of the United States is sound and she owes it to the world to keep her self-possession, continued the president. He would take pride in whatever calmness of thought and steadiness of purpose the nation showed in the present crisis.

Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo sent word to the White House that there was no cause for alarm and no element of unsoundness in the situation, the president stated. He said the country owed it to the world to give Europe our surplus of foodstuffs in an effort to alleviate the suffering due to the war.

The question of diverting coastwise ships, including sailing vessels, to the Atlantic trade, has been discussed, the president said, but no decision has been reached. The president continued that probably many of the coastwise vessels, such as the fruit-carrying vessels, would prove unsuitable for European traffic.

A proclamation of neutrality will be issued by the United States in the near future, the president told his callers.

The president stated that the organization of the Federal reserve board would help the domestic situation. He added that Secretary McAdoo had sent him word from New York today that the banking situation there was encouraging. He also told his callers that McAdoo was doing all he could to help American tourists in Europe to get back home, but that no definite steps had been determined upon.

A Question of Value

It Involves the Subject
Love

Given two men and a woman you'll most always have a romance; two women and one man are apt to produce a riot, but take two women and two men, all in love, and every one of 'em bein' a misfit, as you might say, and it's like a two ring circus—you can't possibly take in all the details.

When this here Miss Daphne Donaldson first throws in with the west it's with no notion except to forget past unpleasantnesses which, I learn afterward, was caused by her having Pullman tastes and her husband having a day coach pocketbook.

Course, in order to win her he puts up a bigger front than his bank account calls for, and when he can't live up to the premises she pleads nonsupport and requests her maiden name.

So when we first see her she's got both the divorce and said maiden name and has few west to escape the gossip and scandal ensuin' from the same.

It took a special trip to freight her trunks out to the ranch, and she had clothes that made the men set up and take notice and the women's eyes turn green with envy.

She shore has the heart broke look, and she ain't been here a week before I see plain that Johnny Duval is goin' to be first aid to the injured.

You see, the biggest part of this ranch is owned by a man back east named Stoner, who was her confidential adviser, and he tells her just to come and make herself at home here till such time as she feels like facin' the world again.

Now, Mary Talbert, whose folks have charge of this outfit, is one of them quiet, practical girls who only know one way to love—that's with a secret, consumin' passion.

Secret, that is only to the object of it, and consumin' all her time in thinkin' about it. The object of Mary's devotion was Johnny Duval.

That such is bad enough.

LOCAL BASEBALL DOINGS.

Games Played or to be Played by the Home Teams.

The Beverwyck A. C. defeated the Knickerbocker baseball team on Sunday afternoon by a score of 6 to 2. Harlow and DeWitt were in the points for the Beverwycks.

Barney Droyfus, owner of the Pittsburgh Nationals and Scout Billy Murray were in Poughkeepsie on Saturday and paid bill McCabe $2,000 for Dan Kelly, the former Kingston fielder. He is expected to report to the Pirates at once as they need strengthening.

The K. of C. baseball team were defeated by the Rhinecliff team Sunday in a well played game by a score of 5 to 4. The Knights have a good player in Oetzel, the new Cuban short stop, who has signed up for the rest of the season. Mangal, another Cuban, will join the team next Sunday when they clash with the fast Red Monograms.

In a game full of scraps and quarrels Sunday the Red Monograms defeated the High Falls baseball team at McVey's field. The score was 7 to 5. It was the first game of the season that two umpires were required to watch the play and keep the peace. The visitors quarrelled over every decision and the home boys gave them two runs on a platter to appease them at one stage. In spite of this the Monograms were victorious. Sherer was on the mound for the locals and Meyers for the visitors. The latter made a good impression on the Kingston fans but the constant scrapping marred the game. Next Sunday there will be a battle royal when the Monograms clash with the Knights of Columbus at McVey's field.

On Sunday in Wilbur the All Wilbur A. C. Club met and defeated the fast Eddyville A. C. in a fast and exciting game. Deltz and Peyer were the batteries for Wilbur, Deltz having 18 strikeouts in his league style, and only allowing 5 hits. Lou Black was touched freely, Wilbur getting him for 17 hits. The features of the game were the pitching of Deltz and the fielding and batting of Wilbur.

R. H. Wilbur—0 0 3 2 0 2 5 x—14 17

Eddyville—0 0 0 2 0 0 0 0—2 5

Two base hits, Hauser, 2. Struck out by Deltz, 18; by Black, 7. Hit by Deltz, 1; by Black, 3. Walks by Deltz, 4; by Black, 1. Umpire William McManus.

An exciting game of baseball was played on the athletic field Saturday afternoon between the Lace Mills team and the Shirt factory nine, the Shirt Factory winning by one run, the score being 7 to 6. At the beginning of the ninth inning the score stood six all, but this was changed when with two outs the captain of the Shirt Factory team spied Grove Webster on the bleachers. He went over and whispered something in his ear, and Mr. Webster walked to the plate to bat. There were two outs, and a man on second base. "Strike one," called the umpire. Webster took a breath. "Strike two," called the umpire. It now began to look as though the pitcher might win as the veteran ball player gripped his bat, smiled and away went the ball for a three bagger, bringing in the winning run.

Before a large crowd on McVey's Field Sunday the Barmans A. C. defeated the fast North Rondouts the third and last game of a series of three games by a score of 10 to 1. The Barmans also won the first two of the first two games by scores of 4 to 3 and 7 to 6. Joy pitched for the Barmans and had thirteen strikeouts to his credit while the North Rondout pitcher also retired thirteen men

MAN OF MYSTERY
DIES SUDDENLY

Marx of Flatbush, Disappointed in Love, Led a Hermit Existence for 20 Years—Found Speechless in Bed at His Home.

Charles A. Marx, the man of mystery of Flatbush, died at the Benedictine Sanitarium on Sunday after an illness of but a few days. For the past twenty years Marx had lived alone in a small three room house that set alone out in the fields on the farm of Levi Osterhout. During the summer he worked on Hendricks's brick yard and made good wages. Marx was very reticent as to his past life and none knew where he came from. For several days he had been missing and finally on Saturday Mr. Osterhout decided to investigate and went to the house where he found Marx sick in bed and unable to speak. Mr. Osterhout took the matter up with Edward McSpirt, overseer of the poor, and that evening Marx was removed to the sanitarium.

As Marx had been an industrious worker during his life it was thought that he must have money saved and on Sunday Supervisor Frank Brink, Mr. McSpirt and Undertaker N. D. J. Murphy went to Flatbush and searched the house and found cash and bank books amounting to $1,500 and also considerable valuable jewelry. Mr. Brink took charge of the money and bankbooks and the jewelry. They also found several letters written in German and when read disclosed the fact that Marx had a nephew and a niece living in New Haven. Mr. Murphy took up the matter with the New Haven police and located the nephew and notified him of his uncle's death and he reached Kingston this morning and took charge of the funeral arrangements.

The secret of the retired life of Mr. Marx was due to the fact that about twenty years ago he kept company with a young lady who lived on Clinton avenue and in some way the match was broken off and Marx disappointed in love went to Flatbush where he rented the house he lived in and spent the remainder of his life there. A search of the house on Sunday disclosed the fact that in his younger days he had been a lover of fine clothes and a dress suit and a Prince Albert were among the collection of suits that he had stowed away and had never used during his stay in Flatbush. There were also numberless photographs and pictures of himself taken when he was a young man found in the house. Marx was also the owner of a handsome white vest with gold dollars for buttons carved with his initials.

Mr. Marx was very neat in his household affairs and the house was found immaculately clean with everything in its place. The funeral arrangements have not been completed as yet.

Metal Railroad Ties.

The scarcity of wood for general purposes and the increasing cost of wooden railway ties in Europe has encouraged the manufacture and general use of metal ties in recent years in the railways on the continent. About seventy per cent of the ties in use on the federal railroads of Switzerland are metal.

MENKE'S DAILY
SPORTING LETTER

(By Frank G. Menke.)

New York, Aug. 3.—Quite a number of our best beloved ball players are considerably worried over the latest move of Dave Fultz, president of the Players Fraternity, guardian angel for the players, and commander-in-chief of the army that cavorts on the greens in the summer months.

Dave meant all right when he suggested that the Interstate Commerce Commission should look into the baseball business, but he seems to have slipped a few cables when he added to the suggestion that "the commission, after ascertaining the receipts and expenses of the various clubs, should fix the rates."

The business of having the government fix the rates in other years might have worked out all right. But this year it's a bit different. The majority of the clubs will lose heavily this year, and if the commission undertook the job of fixing rates, it would mean that they would regulate salaries in accordance with the receipts. This would mean that in some towns the players, but, at the end of the season, they might find that they owed the club money for board and lodging.

"Chick" Evans has just written an article on "The Art of Putting." And Bombardier Wells, of England, has written one on prize fighting. It's now time for "Ping" Bodie, of the White Sox, to write one on "The Art of Base Stealing."

"Silence, Though It Pains Me." might be a good subject for Ban Johnson, if he ever took to writing. Charles Ebbets, of Brooklyn, might write on "Ramming the Cannon, But Failing to Shoot," or "The Man Who Faltered."

Joe Birmingham, of the Naps, could pen an article on "Pennants: The Art of Winning Them." Frank Moran, of Pittsburgh, should write on "How I Whipped Johnson (in conversation)." And Ty Cobb ought to write on "How to Keep Peace With the Butchers."

In direct contrast to the war-like situation in Europe taken that in the United States. It's been nearly two weeks since the players threatened war, more than a month since Ty Cobb slammed a butcher on his proposals, more than four months since anybody soaked John McGraw from the rear and more than a week since a fan flipped a beer bottle on the co-co of an umpire.

Also, it's been quite a spell since Ban Johnson, Garry Herrmann, et al, belittled anything about "The Feds Are a Joke."

As matters stand just now in the legal game between Organized Baseball and the Feds, the Feds seem to be two up and one to play, having won out in the Chase and Johnson cases, and being rather confident of victory in the Marsans case.

Take Your Choice.
"The Federal League, as a whole, has lost about $50,000 so far," James A. Gilmore president of the Federal League.

"The Feds, so far have lost about $1,000,000 and they'll lose more before the season is over"—Organized Baseball.

The discussion over just where one should look while proceeding about the business of putting in a golfing game, goes merrily on. Some of our best little experts tell us to look at the ball—not at the hole. Others tell us that we should look at the hole and not at the ball. "I'll right, fellows, when your ball is only a foot or so from the cup. One pair of eyes can be focused on both the ball and the hole. But whaddayado when your ball lies anywhere from six to 25 feet from the hole?"

Slipping.

There's no slipping up hill again, and no standing still when you've begun to slip down.

Good Roads.

You may obtain from a uniformed attendant correct information regarding the condition of the roads gratis at Smith Brothers' Restaurant, Poughkeepsie, N. Y. Special auto lunches prepared, at the home of S. B. Cough Drops.—Advertisement.

MAN OF MYSTERY
DIES SUDDENLY

Marx of Flatbush, Disappointed in Love, Led a Hermit Existence for 20 Years—Found Speechless in Bed at His Home.

Charles A. Marx, the man of mystery of Flatbush, died at the Benedictine Sanitarium on Sunday after an illness of but a few days. For the past twenty years Marx had lived alone in a small three room house that set alone out in the fields on the farm of Levi Osterhoudt. During the summer he worked on Hendricks's brick yard and made good wages. Marx was very reticent as to his past life and none knew where he came from. For several days he had been missing and finally on Saturday Mr. Osterhoudt decided to investigate and went to the house where he found Marx sick in bed and unable to speak. Mr. Osterhoudt took the matter up with Edward McSpirt, overseer of the poor, and that evening Marx was removed to the sanitarium.

As Marx had been an industrious worker during his life it was thought that he must have money saved and on Sunday Supervisor Frank Brink, Mr. McSpirt and Undertaker N. D. J. Murphy went to Flatbush and searched the house and found cash and bank books amounting to $1,500 and also considerable valuable jewelry. Mr. Brink took charge of the money and bankbooks and the jewelry. They also found several letters written in German and when read disclosed the fact that Marx had a nephew and a niece living in New Haven. Mr. Murphy took up the matter with the New Haven police and located the nephew and notified him of his uncle's death and he reached Kingston this morning and took charge of the funeral arrangements.

The secret of the retired life of Mr. Marx was due to the fact that about twenty years ago he kept company with a young lady who lived on Clinton avenue and in some way the match was broken off and Marx disappointed and broke out to Flatbush where he rented the house he lived in and spent the remainder of his life there. A search of the house on Sunday disclosed the fact that in his younger days he had been a lover of fine clothes and a dress suit and a Prince Albert were among the collection of suits that he had stowed away and had never used during his stay in Flatbush. There were also numerous photographs and pictures of himself taken when he was a young man found in the house. Marx was also the owner of a handsome white vest with gold buttons for buttons carved with his initials.

Mr. Marx was very neat in his household affairs and the house was found immaculately clean with everything in its place. The funeral arrangements have not been completed as yet.

Metal Railroad Ties.

The scarcity of wood for general purposes and the increasing cost of wooden railway ties in Europe has encouraged the manufacture and general use of metal ties in recent years in the railways on the continent. About seventy per cent of the ties in use on the federal railroads of Switzerland are metal.

A
TODAYMENKE'S DAILY
SPORTING LETTER

(By Frank G. Menke.)

New York, Aug. 3.—Quite a number of our best beloved ball players are considerably worried over the latest move of Dave Fultz, president of the Players Fraternity, guardian angel for the players, and commander-in-chief of the army that cavitates on the greens in the summer months.

Davey meant all right when he suggested that the Interstate Commerce Commission should look into the baseball business, but he seems to have slipped a few cables when he added to the suggestion that "the commission, after ascertaining the receipts and expenses of the various clubs, should fix the rates."

The business of having the government fix the rates in other years might have worked out all right. But this year it's a bit different. The majority of the clubs will lose heavily this year, and if the commission undertook the job of fixing rates, it would mean that they would regulate salaries in accordance with the receipts. This would mean that in some towns the players not only wouldn't draw huge salaries, but, at the end of the season, they might find that they owed the club money for board and lodging.

"Chick" Evans has just written an article on "The Art of Putting." And Bombardier Wells, of England, has written one on prize fighting. It's now time for "Ping" Bodie, of the White Sox, to write one on "The Art of Base Stealing."

"Silence, Though It Pains Me," might be a good subject for Ban Johnson, if he ever took to writing. Charles Ebbets, of Brooklyn, might write on "Ramming the Cannon, But Failing to Shoot," or "The Man Who Faltered."

Joe Birmingham, of the Naps, could pen an article on "Pennants: the Art of Winning Them." Frank Moran, of Pittsburgh, should write on "How I Whipped Johnson (in conversation)" and Ty Cobb ought to write on "How to Keep Peace With the Butchers."

In direct contrast to the war-like situation in Europe take that in the United States. It's been nearly two weeks since the players threatened war, more than a month since Ty Cobb slammed a butcher on his pro-bos, more than four moons since anybody soaked John McGraw from the rear and more than a week since a fan flipped a beer bottle on the co-co of an umpire.

Also, it's been quite a spell since Ban Johnson, Garry Herrmann, et al, belittled anything about "The Feds Are a Joke."

As matters stand just now in the legal game between Organized Baseball and the Feds, the Feds seem to be two up and one to play, having won out in the Chase and Johnson cases, and being rather confident of victory in the Marsans case.

Take Your Choice.
"The Federal League, as a whole, has lost about $50,000 so far," James A. Gilmore president of the Federal League.

"The Feds, so far have lost about $1,000,000 and they'll lose more before the season is over"—Organized Baseball.

The discussion over just where one should look while proceeding about the business of putting in a golfing game, goes merrily on. Some of our best little experts tell us to look at the ball—not at the hole. Others tell us that we should look at the hole and not at the ball. S'all right, fellows, when your ball is only a foot or so from the cup. One pair of eyes can be focused on both the ball and the hole. But whaddayado when your ball lies anywhere from six to 25 feet from the hole?

Slipping.
There's no slipping up hill again, and no standing still when you've begun to slip down.

Good Roads.
You may obtain from a uniformed attendant correct information regarding the condition of the roads gratis at Smith Brothers' Restaurant, Poughkeepsie, N. Y. Special auto lunches prepared at the home of S. B. Cough Drops.—Advertisement.
